"It is practically impossible to obtain a snapshot of every student in T. C. U. through the Frog photographers," Miss Harness said, "and we want 100 per cent representation, so if you have any snapshots of yourself, please give them to members of the staff."

Miss Harness stated that the object of the staff was to publish the book early this year and with the cooperation of the student body this could be done.

'Ping' and 'Pong' Furnish Exercise For Footballers

Students alarmed at the strange growling and muttering and the sharp clicking sounds issuing from the gymnasium can now cease their wondering as to the cause. It's only the football team getting into condition for the spring training session.

High above the swimming pool in the gymnastics room there is a ping-pong table, and many of our football men beat a steady path up the stairs to try their hand at the game.

Howard Grubbs, freshman coach, is reported to be the champion of the school, but many are clamoring for a shot at his title. Especially is this true of Wilbur "Windmill" Harrison, so called because of his peculiar method of playing. "Windmill" revolves his paddle about in front of him much in the manner of a windmill.

"You'd be surprised at how many times I hit the ball by this method," he says. "You see, I've worked out this system from the law of averages."

Two other staunch advocates of the game, Wilson Groseclose and Tiny Godwin, have contributed some revealing remarks about the advantages of ping-pong.

"Dis (puff-puff) game's a (puff-puff) cinch," gasps out Groseclose as he races from one corner to the other to return Tiny's sizzling forehand and backhand drives.

"Aw, nerfs!" says Godwin.

Rhodes to Assist With Glee Club

Will Direct Extra Rehearsals Preceding Trip.

J. Clark Rhodes, B. M. '32, was appointed this week as assistant to W. J. Marsh, director of the T. C. U. Men's Glee Club. Rhodes will direct extra rehearsals of the club in preparation for its annual tour, which will begin early in April.

Rhodes was assistant director of the A Capella Choir of 60 voices at the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich., last summer. While in the camp he studied public school music under Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, director of music education at the University of Michigan, who was president of the camp.

While in T. C. U. Rhodes majored in piano and minored in public school music. He was a charter member of the Music Club and was president in his senior year. He also assisted in the physical education department.

He is a member of the Fort Worth Music Teachers' Association and the Fort Worth Federation of Piano Tuners. He has been associated with piano tuning work for several years and was custodian of the pianos at the music camp at Interlochen. He also has charge of the pianos in T. C. U., the University Christian Church and the Losh Institute of Music.

Hawley Guest Speaker in B. B. A. Department

To Give 8 Lectures to Class in "Public Utilities"—Course Open to Visitors.

Major John B. Hawley, engineer, lectures on modern water systems to the class in "Public Utilities" at 9 o'clock each Tuesday and Thursday morning at the request of Dr. A. L. Boeck.

The course of eight lectures will probably be followed by two discussions of the water supply and sewerage system in Paris, of which Major Hawley has made a close study.

Major Hawley says that the two greatest public utilities are the system that supplies mankind with water and the arrangement which eliminates household and human waste.

Those interested in surface and underground water supply for towns and cities are invited to hear the lectures.

"The aspect of the classes has been pleasing, the students thoughtful, intelligent, and attentive," Major Hawley said.

Members of the "Y" will assist Miss Honea in the booths and displays to be set up in the room. A blue and white color scheme will be used in all decorations.

Students who are interested in helping the Y. W. C. A. should call by the bazaar and look over the articles on sale, she said.

"We have things that will interest the taste of various students, and at a reasonable price," Miss Honea said.

Mary Couts Burnett Library To Have Birthday Wednesday

Next Wednesday morning the Mary Couts Burnett Library will celebrate its tenth birthday. Although most any day is a birthday for this "pride and joy" of the University, Feb. 27 is recognized as the official natal day, 'cause it was exactly 10 years from that date that the oak doors to that spacious memorial swung open, for the public.

Two days before the formal opening, the building was open for public inspection. However on the opening day, formal ceremonies were held with President E. M. Waits presiding. D. E. Winkler, head of the library at the University of Texas, was the guest speaker, Miss Nell Andrews, who was at that time head librarian; Mrs. Clint J. Taylor, chairman of the committee for more books; Mrs. W. H. Moore and Mrs. Charles Schuler, head of Carnegie Library, also spoke during the program. The Girls' and Men's Glee Clubs furnished musical entertainment for the affair.

Mrs. J. E. Mothershead, who was assistant librarian to Miss Andrews and who is now head librarian, recalls the night that the voluminous materials and books were moved from the basement of the Main Building, which had served as a library previous to the opening. She says that approximately 25 students assisted her and Miss Andrews in moving. Each box was numbered with the catalog numbers of the books and made the task less difficult as the books could be arranged in the boxes just as they had appeared on the shelves. Mrs. Mothershead stayed in the Main Building and supervised the packing and sending end while Miss Andrews was in the new building overseeing the new arrangements. "We worked until past midnight that night," Mrs. Mothershead recalled. "And everyone could hardly wait for the opening day to come. They wanted to see the reactions of the public to their efforts."

The T. C. U. Woman's Club presented the library with a beautiful book plate, and each book received was marked with a plate designed by President Waits. At the time the library opened, its shelves held 24,848 volumes, not including the governmental documents. Today the number has increased to 39,103 volumes with 10,554 governmental documents.

As Mrs. Mothershead told about the old days we picked up the following notes. Maybe you didn't know that:

The President's and the Dean's office as they are today were once used as reading rooms—part of the library.

The present education office, Prof. Smith's and Prof. Jones' classrooms were filled with stacks of books.

The dummy elevator from the reading rooms up on the first floor had a bell on it as a signal to the ones in the basement that certain books were wanted.

That the Mary Couts Burnett Library opened at 7:45 o'clock in the morning and closed at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Later it stayed open until 9 o'clock. However through a campaign in The Skiff permission was gained to extend the closing hour to 10 o'clock.

T. C. U. Varieties To Begin Sunday

Holiday Called As 5 Students Celebrate Birth

Five T. C. U. students have the distinction of having their birthdays declared a holiday throughout the United States.

All of the banks and business houses close for the day and people make long speeches about what a happy occasion their birthday is. Even the president praises the occasion, and flags are seen flying from every building in town.

To add to the greatness of their big day of the year, the date on the calendar is marked in red letters like Christmas and Sundays.

These five distinguished students are Miss Dorothy Lee Dixon, Miss Wynelle Moxley, Sears Roach, Weyman Raberson and Bill Wilson. Their birthdays are Feb. 22.

University Gets German Portrait

Picture Given by Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation.

A portrait of Goethe, famous German composer, drawn by Karl Bauer, eminent German artist, was donated to the University this week by the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation. The portrait was given as the result of a vote of faculty members and students who visited the Foundation's exhibit of modern German graphic art, which was on exhibit in the art studios this week.

"The Prisoners," an etching by Kaethe Kollwitz, received the second highest number of votes in the poll. These results were announced by Mrs. Yvonne Johnson, representative of the Schurz Foundation, Tuesday, after the exhibition and voting had closed.

The exhibition was praised by Prof. S. P. Ziegler as one of the most successful to be shown at the University in recent years.

"I believe that many students and other persons who visited the exhibition and heard Mrs. Johnson's lectures left with a new appreciation of art and its association with the culture of the times," Prof. Ziegler said.

After leaving T. C. U., Mrs. Johnson took the exhibit to be shown in other places in Fort Worth. She will leave soon for Abilene. She will remain in Texas until June, placing the works on exhibition in a number of cities, including Waco, Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Belton and Georgetown.

Science Department Will Conduct Chapel

Program Will Commemorate Texas Independence Day March 2.

The science department will have charge of the chapel program next Wednesday. The program will be in the honor of Texas Independence Day. The Dramatic Club sponsored the program last Wednesday. Miss Madalyn Whitener, president, presided and Miss Opal Gooden read a chapter from the Bible and an article, using a modern interpretation of the same subject, by Thornton Wilder.

The second half of the program was presented by the Madcap Players of the Meadowmere Club. They gave the first act of their current production "No Mother to Guide Her," or "It Wasn't Her Fault."

"Tough to Get Up in Middle Of Night," Says Baton Wielder

"Surely is tough to get up in the middle of the night," said Richard Cole after he had concluded a luncheon concert at the Blackstone Friday afternoon.

"Let's talk in the coffee shop," he added, "while I do away with some ham and eggs." The time was 2 p. m. And the handsome band leader did as well with a fork as he does with a baton.

"Do I really like music? I'll say I do. I've been in the game a long time and like it more every day. I was formerly with Ted Fiorita's orchestra and, before talking pictures, played the "atmosphere" for some of the movie stars. You know, the "atmosphere" is the music that is in the mood they are trying to feel."

"I play a violin, clarinet, oboe and saxophone. I studied violin at the Chicago Conservatory of Music. Am getting tired of popular music because we play it so much. However, the tango and the rumba have a refreshing rhythm and a little added fire that make them more entertaining to play."

The present Cole orchestra has been together for four years and has traveled around the United States.

Cole's music library consists of 1500 "tunes", including many old ones

Vice Versa Dance Will Be Staged March 9 in Gym

Boys Will Be Admitted Only When Escorted by T. C. U. Girl

Co-operation Asked

All-School Dance Will Be Held After Frog-Mustang Game March 2.

The Vice Versa dance, to be sponsored by the Student Council, will be held in the Basketball Gymnasium Saturday, March 9, Jack Langdon, student body president, announced this week.

"Since the students voted almost unanimously in favor of having such a dance, the Council expects the student body to co-operate in putting it over. Unless the girls enter into the spirit of the occasion, and ask the boys for dates, however, the dance won't be a success," Langdon said.

An all-school dance will be held after the T. C. U.-S. M. U. basketball game Saturday, March 2. Ronald Wheeler and his Varsonianis will furnish music on both occasions. Two other dances have been scheduled for March but definite arrangements have not been completed.

Members of the Meliorist Club will present a play, "Deathless World," by J. S. Thompson at 8:45 o'clock Sunday evening in the recreation room of the University Christian Church.

Miss Nina Whittington is directing the play and the principal roles will be taken by Clarence Crotty, Miss Dorothy Jones, Weldon Allen, Miss Opal Gooden and S. A. Wall. Herman Pittman and Fred Vasquez have minor parts in the play.

Elmer Seybold is the stage manager.

"The costumes and set will be futuristic in design, as the scene is laid in 2300 A. D.," said Miss Whittington.

"The play answers the question, 'What would you do in a deathless world?'"

F. P. Miller Talks Here Under Auspices of 'Y's'

"Nationalism is more dangerous at present than it was before the World War," said Francis P. Miller, chairman of the World Christian Student Federation, in his talk on "Economic Nationalism" to members of the International Relations Club Unit I and the 'Y' groups at a joint meeting of the three organizations Tuesday in Brite chapel.

"Before the war nationalism was more a matter of sentiment, but since that time, with the modern means of publicity, it has become a definite danger," Miller said.

"...Can Spring Be Far Away?"

Spring is in the air. If you haven't seen any robins, those classic harbingers of spring, singing in the tops of trees covered with green foliage, don't be discouraged. No, the grass isn't getting green any too quickly, either, but The Skiff has noted several infallible signs that prove conclusively that spring is on its way.

Some afternoon stroll leisurely toward the Stadium and watch the activity there. Yes, you guessed it. Baseball practice is under way, and that can mean but one thing. When you see a group of pitchers ironing the kinks out of their arms, and hear the thump of the ball in the catcher's mitt, you instinctively breathe deeply. Spring is in the air.

Classes and clubs, content with parties and dances through the winter months, are beginning to plan picnics. The cycle has started and will last the rest of the school year. Every organization worthy of the name feels obligated to give at least one picnic during the spring months.

And the young man's fancy is beginning to do what the poet said it would do when springtime rolls around. The campus is being dotted with couples, as benches, long unused, are brought into use. Dormant romance is awakening. Silent loves are becoming less silent as every blade of green grass appears. You have the answer. Spring is in the air.

How About It, Girls?

It has been decreed that T. C. U. have a "vice versa," or a "backward," dance. The idea is an old one but because of its recent arrival on our campus, the result should prove a novelty to everyone concerned. The vote taken last week was indicative of the popularity of the proposed dance. Only one dissenting vote was registered on the ballots.

The plan is for the girls to look over the male crop, telephone or else corner him in the hall, boldly ask him if he's going to the dance and if not, would he like to go. If he says he's going, she must look again. While she's looking, her mental faculties are in the process of wondering if he'll be tagged by the "stags" or if he'll make a nice looking wall flower. She'd hate to get stuck with him. After she finds that her date would love to go, she says she'll be by around 8 o'clock.

She goes home, lays out her best formal, informs the family she'd like the use of the car for the evening and is promptly told that Mother and Dad are using it. She'll call Jane and double date with her. While in the shower, she wonders if she should send him a boutonniere or just forget it. Maybe Jane's sending her date one. Maybe she'd better.

After carefully grooming herself, she hurriedly runs in answer to Jane's horn, and off to ring the doorbell of his home. He'll be right down, announces his Mom. And down he comes, exclaiming over the beautiful carnation. It was so sweet of her to send it. Finally, after two or three other stops, they pull up in front of the fieldhouse. She gets out and helps him to the gravel.

Forty cents to the man at the window and inside to help him off with his coat and to the check room. Not many "stags" in sight. Looks like a monotonous evening. She consents to let him do the leading. The first one went off nicely. Things are looking up. Oh, but here comes Doris. She always did like him. Surely you may cut! Well, let's see. No, he doesn't look like a good dancer. Better look around some more. Guess she'll tag Tom. He seems to be getting the rush.

One step and free again. Wonder where her date is? Must have gone out for a smoke. "See You in My Dreams" and in walks the date with that cat, Doris. She tags and suggests they leave. Listens to long story about "just looking everywhere for you." Decides they'll take the boys home, sans food. Good night at the door, and away to the nearest coney island shop. End of another Saturday night.

Justice?

"I find him guilty of murder in the third degree," intoned the 12 Hauptmann jurors, when asked individually to read their verdict in the year's most important trial. These 10 words sealed the fate of the Bronx carpenter, because a flat first-degree murder verdict carries with it a mandatory death sentence in New Jersey.

No quarrel is forthcoming with the verdict of the jury. There is no denying that there was a mass of evidence against Hauptmann. True, the evidence was mostly circumstantial.

The whole quarrel is with the American jury system. All Americans are guaranteed trial by jury. That is one of their inalienable rights. When on trial, the defendant's fate rests in the hands of the twelve men—"twelve good men and true" as the old saying goes. Good? True? Are goodness and truth the only requisites of jurors. Do those two qualities fit a man to decide whether a man shall live or whether he shall die? Shouldn't intelligence be an important factor.

Consider for a moment the personnel of the jury that sentenced Bruno Hauptmann—a typical bourgeois American jury. Shouldn't a few of the professions have been represented in the group? Wouldn't a few college degrees have helped?

What happens when a jury is needed in America? Five hundred men are called and a mere dozen retained. The smallest sign of intelligence will make a man ineligible for jury service. If you are in college and have passed your sophomore year, you need have no fear. You won't have to do jury service. You know too much. Lawyers want minds they can mould. In England there is a different story. Thirteen men are called and 12 of them serve on the jury. Rarely is there a miscarriage of justice in the British Isles.

Every defendant in America should get a trial before a jury of his peers.

"Would-Be-Lovers" Fill Campus Benches These Days

BY ROSEMARY COLLYER.

The majority of the students seem to be taking to the great outdoors in this balmy spring weather. It's almost impossible to find an unoccupied bench upon which to rest those weary bones because of the spring-struck couples scattered here and there gazing raptly into space.

The tennis courts seem to be a favorite spot with the girls trying to get in those hours for W. A. A. Incidentally, it's fun to watch some of the experts, but not so much fun to be called in to make doubles.

Without exerting any claim to foresight into that unknown realm, the future, we can find a lot of interesting things for our attention. Such as the three dances coming up within the next month, with rumors of another formal as something else to anticipate.

Soon we will be going to the Stock Show and Rodeo and eating "hot dogs." Every night at the Rodeo looks like T. C. U. night, and some people are lucky enough to get to go more than once. You'd better be saving up those pennies if you intend to go. If you've never been, as I heard one say the other day, then you can be sure that it's well worth a little temporary skipping. Speaking of skipping, we've been saving our pennies in order to take the boy friend to that "Vice Versa" dance. Let us hope and pray that they don't forget to have dinner before we call for them. That may lessen their appetites after the dance. A hint to the wise should be sufficient. If you haven't the money then you'd better be an expert dishwasher.

Frogs to Meet Aggie Cage Team Tomorrow Night

Will Close Road Schedule Against Texas Monday Night.

Arkansas Sets Pace

Purple Must Win Two of Remaining Games to Emerge From Cellar.

Entering the final week of conference play, the Horned Frog cagers will meet the A. & M. quintet in College Station tomorrow night. Monday night the Meyermen move to Austin to close their road schedule in a game with the Texas Longhorns.

The season will come to a close next Saturday night in the Purple fieldhouse with the S. M. U. team furnishing the competition.

Frogs Into Home Stretch.

The Frogs go into the home stretch with only one victory to their credit, that against Baylor. Hopelessly out of the race, the Meyermen will be trying to climb out of the cellar in the closing contests. They are now two games behind the Baylor Bears, and will need to win two of their games to have a chance to pass the Bruins.

Coach Meyer has not made any changes in his line-up during practice sessions this week, so will probably use the same five who have opened the last two games. This squad is made up of Capt. Judy Truelson and Willie Walls, forwards; Darrell Lester, center, and Sam Baugh and Byron Saam, guards.

Lester's Ankle Bothering.

However, Lester, yesterday was still nursing a sprained ankle, received Saturday night in the Baylor game, and there was a possibility that he would not be able to make the trip. If Lester cannot play, Capt. Truelson will go to center and Walter Roach to the forward position.

As the race draws to a close, the Arkansas Razorbacks continue to set the pace, even after dropping a game to the Longhorns last week. Rice and S. M. U. are within striking distance. The Ponies will have a chance to gain more ground this week-end in a two-game series with the leaders.

Juniors Beat Sophs To Force Play-off

Outlaws Winners of "B" League Title—Ray Wester, Soph Star, Disappears.

The Junior "A" team defeated the Sophomore "A's" 25 to 22 Wednesday night to force a play-off between the two teams for the championship of the "A" League in the intramural basketball tournament. The Outlaws won the championship of the "B" League Tuesday night by defeating the sophomore "B's" 33 to 18.

The Soph "A's" defeated the Senior first-stringers 22 to 15 Tuesday night in a game played under the protest of the Sophs because of the kidnapping of Ray Wester, their star center. The game was a replayed contest which was the result of a protest by the Seniors over the result of the tilt between the two teams last week.

With 20 seconds to play in the first protested game, the Seniors were leading the Sophs 31 to 29. Dan Harston, referee, called a personal foul on the Seniors. Buck Roberson, in throwing the free-throw, intentionally missed the goal in order that his teammates might follow the shot up for two points and a tie in the score. The try was successful, and the game went into an extra period.

In the extra period the Sophs forged ahead to defeat the Seniors 39 to 37. The Senior leaders, Ed Bryan, manager, and Johnny Kitchen, captain, protested the game on the grounds that the play was a rule violation. Prof. Tom Prouse upheld the protest and ordered the game played over. Wester was kidnapped before the game Tuesday night, carried five miles out into the country and forced to walk back to T. C. U. The Sophomores came out on the big end of the score despite his absence.

Wester was the outstanding performer for the Sophs in their game with the Juniors Wednesday night and was high point man in the game with 10 points. Jimmie Jacks, a Junior, was second high scorer with 9 points. The championship game between the two teams will be played off next week.

Miss Mavis Clymer, a student in T. C. U. last year now at C. I. A., Denton, visited on the campus Saturday.

Donovan's DOPE

By PAUL DONOVAN

Oh, for the life of an athlete about this time of the year. Nothing to do for some of them but practice football, basketball and baseball! Three of the basketball players are also candidates for the other two sports, and with all three in progress at the same time it's no wonder they're running around in circles.

It'll be all right if these all-round athletes don't get their games mixed up. It wouldn't do for the basketball players to get confused and suddenly call for an end run or a quick kick.

Just one more week and the basketball season will be history, to the relief of most T. C. U. supporters. "History repeats itself," so they say, but let's hope not. We have seen, though, that the maximum cannot be applied to sports in the Southwest Conference. It is seldom that a team ever wins a championship twice in successive years. And the same goes for finishing on the bottom. The schools are too evenly matched for a regular order to be established.

Naturally Dutch Meyer has been on the spot again this basketball season. He again took over the reins from Coach Schmidt and thereby placed himself in a difficult situation. The question invariably arises, what could Schmidt have done with this year's basketball squad? Because of his reputation and experience he would probably be given a higher position in the standings than the Frogs now have, but it's purely conjecture. It takes more than a good coach to take a green group and build a winning team. Dutch Meyer's record shows that plainly.

A more pleasant subject now is football. Everything points to a banner year for T. C. U. on the gridiron next fall. There will be the largest squad in modern history of the school on hand. There will be experienced men for every position. There will be weight, speed and power. There will also be a winning spirit; that can be seen already. Finally there will be the same coaching staff that turned out such a fighting team last fall. What more could we ask?

There will still be six other schools in the conference next year, we're not forgetting that. And they will all be fighting too, but it is hard to keep from getting worked up over the potential Frog eleven. The all-American pickers who now have their eye on T. C. U. may get that eye full next fall when Lester, Lawrence, Baugh, Groseclose and a few others open up.

As was generally expected, the football rules committee agreed to a hands-off policy in regard to the present rules. Only minor changes were made, the most important of which allows the ball carrier to continue his progress until he is downed or until the referee's whistle has blown. Up to now, when the runner's forward progress was stopped he was down, but now he has more "chance for advancement." It will now be left to the judgment of the referee, thus making room for discussion and making it more expedient to select capable officials.

To conclude with a little baseball, it appears that the pitchers

28 Men Answer First Grid Call Fundamentals Stressed at Opening Sessions of Practice.

With 28 candidates answering the first call, spring football training opened for the Horned Frogs Monday. Coaches Dutch Meyer and Bear Wolf lost no time in issuing uniforms and starting to work. The opening sessions have dealt mainly with fundamentals, together with a little passing and kicking.

The Frog coaches are expecting a squad of approximately 50 candidates to take part in the spring training. This would be the largest number ever to report for football in T. C. U. Some are now engaged in basketball and baseball, but a schedule will be worked out to enable them to attend the football sessions too.

To Have Four Weeks

The spring practice will continue for four weeks, at the end of which time an intra-squad game will be played. Plays and signals will be issued this week. At present the squad has been divided into two groups, the linemen and the ends and backs. Coach Wolf has been drilling the linemen, while Coach Meyer has had charge of the ends and backs.

50 Players Reporting

The following 50 players are eligible for football next fall and are expected to take part in the spring training:

and catchers now working out will either be in good shape or half dead when the other candidates report. They have learned that Coach Bear Wolf believes in work, and that he is determined to put a good nine on the field this spring. If the pitchers come through the Frogs will certainly be strong contenders.

Winton and McBride Enter Golf Finals

Frogs Defeated By Baylor Bears

Purple Loses 30 to 25 After Missing Scoring Chances.

Inability to cash in on scoring opportunities cost the Frogs another basketball game Saturday night. Baylor emerged the victor in the fray by a 30-to-25 score.

Both teams got away from a slow start and had trouble finding the basket during the first half. It was several minutes before a score was made, this being a free toss by Darrell Lester. The Bears then took command and forged ahead. They maintained a lead until a few seconds before the half ended when a field goal by Sam Baugh knotted the count at 13-13.

The scoring was more frequent in the final period, with the Bruins having a slight edge. However, their lead was small until the closing minutes. Lester was put out on fouls, and his loss weakened the Meyermen materially. They had only a few shots at the basket and were unable to check the Bear aces, Wray and Alford.

Lester had seven points to his credit when he left the game, and this was the best any of the Frogs could do. Willie Walls also garnered seven tallies. Capt. Truelson was following up the Frog shots well all evening, but had difficulty finding the basket. Byron Saam and Sam Baugh, the
