'36 Annual Staff Is Making Plans For Larger Book

100 Per Cent Picture Representation Is Bacus' Aim.

Co-operation Asked

Greater Advertising Campaign Is Being Mapped Out by Loy McCarroll.

Plans for a bigger and better Horned Frog in 1936 are already being made, reports Jones Bacus, editor-in-chief.

Four sections of the book are in the final stages of preparation, Bacus said, and he is trying to have the book laid out and ready for the pictures by the time school opens in September.

As does every other editor, Bacus is planning a book with 100 per cent picture representation. He asked that the students keep this in mind and help him fulfill the ambition to make the 1936 Horned Frog a creditable publication in every respect, filled with pictures to the "nth degree."

"Every regular student who attends T. C. U. pays for an annual," Bacus pointed out and asks:

"Why not have your picture in the book so you will have something to look forward to when the book is issued?"

"In order to have a good book, the students must co-operate, and the advertising must be sold," says Loy McCarroll, business manager, "and I am already making out a list to cover advertisers in a wider field than ever before."

"What we want is a better annual and with the co-operation of the student body, faculty and everyone concerned, this will be realized," said Bacus.

180 Are Registered For Fall Courses

More than 180 students have completed registration for the fall semester, an announcement from Registrar S. W. Hutton today said. Of the 180, approximately 145 are registered as sophomores.

"This is the most encouraging advance registration the University has had in several years," Hutton said. "We hope that many more of the student body will call by the office and arrange next year's courses with us." Sixty-seven students have enrolled for the summer school session, which begins June 5. This number far exceeds the number enrolled at this time last year.

Hewatt Will Receive Ph. D. From Stanford

Willis G. Hewatt, assistant professor of biology, will have the Doctor of Philosophy degree conferred upon him at the annual commencement exercises of Stanford University June 17.

Prof. Hewatt completed the work for the degree last summer, in the field of marine ecology. He did his research work at the Hopkins Marine Station of Stanford University.

Class Anthology To Appear Today

"We Begin, 1935" Is Published By English Group—Richard Poll Editor.

"We Begin, 1935," the first printed edition of the anthology of the invitation English section will appear today. This is the third year of the invitation section. The class has had an anthology each year, but this is the first time it has been printed.

Richard Poll is editor of the publication. Ann Day Jarvis is associate editor. Paul Ridings is business manager. The dedicatory is to Miss Lide Spragins, instructor of the class. The anthology includes poems, book reviews and essays.

Among the contributions are the following: "With the Minor," by Virginia Clark; "Little Sister," by Mary Cogswell; "Men," by Walter Graves; "The Lady in White," by Catherine Haidlip; "Our Secret Place," by Charles Mosshart; "A Day on Lake Michigan," by Maidie Park; "On Unemployment and Its Remedies," by C. H. Richards; "Next Year," by Paul Ridings; "Johnsonville's Leading Citizen," by Lou Cella Trent; "Time," by Catherine Tuscanf. Book reviews are "A Son of the Heath," by Pearl Paul, and "An Intriguing Tale," by Ann Day Jarvis.

W. A. Welsh contributed two poems, "Discovery" and "Queries." One hundred copies of the anthology are to be issued.

Dr. Rebecca Smith will teach the section next year. Instructors in past years have been Miss Mabel Major, Miss Lorraine Shirley and Miss Spragins.

Otto Nielsen will be the speaker on the program this Sunday. Music will be furnished by the Dybwad Trio. Walker Moore will announce the current happenings on the campus.

Graduate Is Drowned At Lake Worth Dam

Frank Wynne Loses Life While Helping Three Charges Reach Shore.

Frank Wynne, who received his degree from T. C. U. in 1932, was drowned below the dam at Lake Worth Tuesday afternoon. Wynne, who was to have been married in four days, was in instructor at the Masonic Home and School. He had waded out into the stream to aid three of his 53 charges whom he had taken to the dam for an outing. The boys reached the bank safely, but Wynne lost his footing and was swept down the stream.

Wynne played football on the University freshman team, but, because of a leg injury, did not take part in varsity athletics. He was vice-president of the freshman class in 1927-28.

Summer School To Offer Only One Speech Course

The course in "Fundamentals of Expression," which was scheduled for the two six weeks terms of the summer school session, will be offered in its entirety in the first term.

Prof. Lew D. Fallis has announced. The second half of the course will take the place of the "Platform Art" class, in the first term. The "Fundamentals" course will be the only public speaking course offered during the summer, as Prof. Fallis will leave for Chicago after the first term is completed.

Miss Jeanne Shelley Jennings of Plainview, who reigned as "Miss West Texas" at the annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Plainview this month, has been a visitor on the campus during the past week.

Class Prophecy, By Edythe Black, Tells of Seniors

Tomorrow Is Foretold for Members of '35 Class.

Judy Turns Author

Secret Ambitions of Many Disclosed in Low-Downs on Higher-Ups.

(The Senior Class prophecy, which is printed below, was read at the Class Day services Wednesday morning by Clarence Crotty. Miss Edythe Black wrote the prophecy.)

I would have to write the prophecy! And as I looked around for means of escape, I decided to be called out of town, get appendicitis or have a nervous breakdown.

But that night as I fitfully dozed, I felt a dreaming that the postman brought my mail and one note said: "Forget your task—come without fail. I have a surprise for you—Tonight will be the time. And to make your presence certain An airplane will call at nine."

'Twas queer—an airplane to take me And the hour, too, as strange. But I dared not miss the meeting, So I hastened to arrange. Promptly came the plane

All painted purple and white And just like a big bird We went sailing out of sight. In the moonlight some enchantment Changed the way I knew so well—Past Forest Park—over T. C. U. we traveled

Fast as I can tell 'Til at last we circled 'round An old-fashioned garden wall. Down we swooped and landed Beside some hollyhocks tall. Then my pilot whispered and urged Me not to say a word. I crouched down behind a rose bush

'An' this 'is what I saw and heard. There stepped a herald and his pages, And as he raised his trumpet shouted

"Hear ye—hear ye all—Prexy is a bit feeble and can't be here to entertain, but he desires that his reunion of the Class of '35 be a happy one.

So have at it gang!" I watched my classmates and Put my ear to the ground. Hear 'is what I found:

WILBYRD IRVIN has at last found a typewriter that will spell and punctuate correctly. . . JACK LANGDON is roaming the country trying to find a professor who will pass him in Organic Chemistry. His ambition in life is to publish a book, "Simplified Chemistry for Promising Young Chemists"

MARY JARVIS is terribly busy these days trying to find a cure for the "Saint Louis Blues." . . We see that JACK PANTER has really progressed. He is the proud author of "The Art of Winning Women." (Be careful as you open the book. You know hot air burns.)

Seniors Reflect on Four Happy Years

Seniors, if you can spare a minute or two between the multifarious class functions to reflect upon your four year's sojourn at the University, you will, no doubt, feel a peculiar lump come creeping into the vicinity of your throat. But don't become alarmed. Similar lumps have come into the throats of similar senior classes before you as graduation time has approached.

Can you remember the first day you spent on the campus? Can you recall your mingled emotions as you stood in the milling mob in front of the registrar's office that first day? As you think back, you'll probably recall with a smile that you surely must have been the greenest of the hundred or more green students who were in the same boat with you.

You were a little bewildered at first, weren't you? You felt lost—as if you were in a strange place without friends. You had heard, no doubt, about the fine record T. C. U. had made on the athletic field, but this didn't impress you a great deal. So had scores of other schools demonstrated their prowess on the athletic field. Above all else you had heard of the democratic atmosphere that prevailed on the T. C. U. campus.

If you came from out of town you probably remember that first night you spent in the dormitory. Remember, you cried just a little. Well, you did have to try pretty hard to keep the tears back, anyway. Life looked pretty desolate as you peered through the dormitory window that first night. Maybe you even had visions of running away from it all the next morning.

But when morning finally came, things seemed totally different. The sun was even shining. Remember how your attitude changed as all the students—students whom you had never seen before—greeted you cheerily as you walked down the sidewalk, you were being taken into the University family at the outset. You realized it and it made you swell with relief and pride. All you had heard about the democratic spirit of the University was really true, even to a greater degree than you had ever imagined.

It didn't take you long to acclimate yourself to your new environment. You resolved at the outset to do more than merely attend classes. You knew that you had as good a chance as anyone else of forging ahead, because no caste system existed at T. C. U. So you became an integral part of the University.

No, Seniors, you don't have to reflect long to recall all the good times you had in those four short years. A few of you may even recall the night you clipped all the hair off the heads of a group of unsuspecting freshmen. It was a rather innocuous little prank—so you thought at the time. Too, you probably have vivid recollections of subsequent nights before the discipline committee. Everything turned out all right and the little episode only served to draw you closer to the University. You gained a clearer perception of the things the University did and did not stand for.

You spent three happy years on the campus and as you came to your senior year you began to look with eager anticipation toward graduation. Harrassed by term themes, book reports and examinations, you were looking for any avenue of escape. But as graduation season neared and final examinations were history you changed your mind about wanting to leave the University. You began to envy the undergraduates. You wished you had it to do over again.

If all the members of the class of '35 were questioned individually they would concur in the opinion that they would go through it all again despite the anathemas uttered against college training by so-called "self-made men." The seniors realize that the value of college training cannot be measured in dollars and cents. They realize that they have spent their four years in college, not marking time until business conditions improved but preparing themselves for life.

With a full understanding of the hard, steep hill they have to climb, 91 seniors will step out into life Monday night, carrying with them the best ideals of their Alma Mater—an Alma Mater they have learned to love. Because, as commencement speakers have told graduating classes for years, "Beyond the Alps lies Italy."

Thanks, Sophomores, For Registering Early

Congratulations, sophomores, for the fine spirit of co-operation you have shown in registering for the fall classes so early.

Of the 180 students who have already finished their registration for next term, 145 are members of the sophomore class. Registrar S. W. Hutton appreciates your co-operation.

When that first-of-school rush starts next year, you'll be glad you didn't procrastinate.

Sargent Says

By BEN SARGENT

Every embryo journalist thinks that it is his manifest destiny to become a columnist. He paints vivid pictures in his imagination of being read eagerly every day. It seems so simple. So with visions of Walter Winchell, Odd McIntyre, Heywood Brown and Westbrook Pegler before his eyes this young journalist goes about his task. Anybody can write a column, so he reasons.

Yes, and anybody does. That's just the trouble. But since this is the last Skiff of the year and since the old editor is going to get his degree you'll have to forgive him if he lapses into the first person singular. To the whole Skiff staff, including Misses Elizabeth Huster, Elizabeth Collyer, Genevieve Papineau, Doris Perry and James Bacus, Walter Pridemore and Shorty Maxwell, goes the editor's undying thanks. They've stood the gaff like veterans and the going hasn't always been so easy.

Thanks Rosy for pinch hitting for my able society editor, Katherine Edwards, whom I'll never be able to thank enough. As a matter of fact I won't even try, because she knows how I feel about it anyway. The same goes for Grace Maloney, Ray Michero and Paul Donovan. And for all the practical and valuable training in journalism I have Prof. J. Willard Riding to thank. It's been a genuine pleasure working under you, Mr. Ridings, and my only hope is that I can apply your teachings in a manner that will bring credit to you and your department. I couldn't have wished for a more congenial working mate than Atys Gardner, Skiff business manager who never once wanted to run a cigarette ad on page 1. And to the students and faculty members who have contributed toward making The Skiff a more readable and accurate paper, the editor offers his most sincere thanks. And now it falls to my lot to turn over the editorial chair to my successor, Raymond (clept Ray) Michero. I only hope you can get to said chair, because you know, Ray, a lot of paper can accumulate in an office in a year. But in all sincerity I wish to say that I'm leaving my work in competent hands. You have some interesting experiences and some good times before you. You'll come in for your share of censure, but don't let it sway you from the path you think is best.

And to the whole student body I wish to say: Thanks for everything—your encouragement, your co-operative spirit, your keen understanding, your loyalty and above all your patience. Parting Word of Sentiment Society Editor's Swan Song

By KATHRYN EDWARDS

"Parting is such sweet sorrow..." So said Shakespeare. Or was it Pope? Anyway, whether it was Bill or Alex, the phrase is fitting and expresses our sentiments as we sit down to run off what probably will be our last copy as a Society Editor, for certain our last society lead for The Skiff. And in keeping with our sentimental nature, it is with a thump in the throat, tears in the eyes, and thorns on the fingertips that I sing my swan song.

The new ditty you heard in "Reckless" might be paraphrased to "Everything's Been Said Before," for all farewells and fond adieus are of the same coloring. But now that the time has come it is hard for us to ever say what's been said before. Perhaps the least said is the better for everyone concerned.

While we're saying goodbye, we'd like to also say thanks. First, to Mr. J. Willard Ridings, known to many as the hardest prof on the campus, but known to those of us who have not only worked with and for him, but who have also played and joked with him as an understanding man of many accomplishments. His city editor-like attitude is only a masquerade, only in times of necessity. The knowledge he has imparted to us will make the sailing easier and the obstacles smaller when we set sail in our own little skiff.

Then, to the staff with whom it has been a pleasure to have worked week in and week out, we say thanks for the co-operative spirit. Keep it up and The Skiff will go places. Working with an editor like Ben Sargent, is young journalism's dream come true. Just an easy-going, light-hearted, but thoroughly capable sort, Ben has issued Volume 33 of The Skiff to the satisfaction of the student body and administration whose approval speaks success in many ways.

President Waits, Dean Hall, Mrs. Beckham, Mrs. Mothershead and Mr. Hutton and the other administrative officials whom I have haunted, shadowed and questioned for 36 weeks and who have obligingly made possible bigger and better news stories. I should like to say thanks for everything. May those who take over my run next year meet with the same interested spirit as I have this past year.

I couldn't leave T. C. U. without thanking Miss Rebecca Smith for all the kind things she has done for me, both inside and outside the classroom. It is personalities like hers that make academic pursuits both profitable and pleasurable. She has not only inspired, but created an incentive within me to push forward. Through her interested attitude she has instilled many with the desire to succeed. Would that there were more Miss Rebecca Smith's in life.

And last, but not least, to all of my dear readers, (yeah! to all three of them, the copyholder, the linotype man and proofreader) let me say "Thanks for reading" and try to remember your 1935 Skiff correspondent who just found out what it means to say along.

Jack Langdon Gives Farewell Message

To say farewell at the end of the final and best year of one's school life is rather difficult. To say it has been a real pleasure to have worked with and for the student body during this past year is not so difficult. In speaking, for myself and in behalf of the Student Council, we have appreciated the joint support and loyal cooperation afforded by the students and members of the faculty, without whose efforts ours would have been in vain. It is our sincerest wish that the united efforts of Council, students, and faculty have resulted in some degree to the further advancement of Texas Christian University.

With the students and the Council I wish to acclaim those loyal members of the faculty, who so freely gave of their time and the profits of their broad experience, who were so tolerant of our mistakes and shortcomings, who were so courageous as to take experimental steps with us in the face of the storms of protest. Students together let's take off our hats to the loyal and faithful friends of the students—the members of the faculty and their leader, President Waits.

To those members of the Council whose good work for the students and the best interests of T. C. U. is known, let us also pay tribute, and wish for the Council to come the same loyal support the students of this year gave.

Here's to a fond farewell and a wish for a bigger and better T. C. U. each succeeding year.

Well, President Diggs, here is where I get off!

JACK LANGDON.

ATHLETES SAY:

"THEY DON'T GET YOUR WIND!"

TOMMY ARMOUR, a Camel smoker of many years' standing, who says: "I've smoked Camels for years, without jittery nerves or cutting down my wind."

Read below what these famous athletes say about their experiences in smoking Camels

A suggestion: Follow the athletes in your search for cigarette mildness. They can't trifle with healthy nerves—their "condition"—their wind. The cigarette they smoke must be mild.

Tommy Armour, the golf champion, says: "Camels never bother my nerves or shorten my wind—convincing evidence that Camels are mild."

Mel Ott, heavy-hitting outfielder of the New York Giants, reports: "My experience is that Camels are so mild they never get my wind."

And Stubby Kruger,

water polo and swimming star; Amy Lou Oliver, diver; and Lester Stoenen, tennis star, agree with Pete Knight, the rodeo champion, who says: "Camels—there's a smoke so mild it never cuts down your wind, never gets you out of condition."

A mildness that will please you too! Camels are made from costlier tobaccos. They are mild, cool, gentle on the throat. Smoke them all you wish. Camels don't upset your nerves... or tire your taste. And athletes find that Camels do not get their wind.

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO!

CONSIDER THAT LIFE IS MORE WORTH WHILE when you feel good—physically fit, "in condition." Turn to Camels. Athletes say, "They don't get your wind."

SO MILD YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

Camels

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Outlook Bright For Horned Frog Grid, Cage Teams

21 Lettermen Due to Report for Football Next Year.

Lester Is Captain

Christians Will Have Strong Baseball Team if Pitching Staff Can Be Developed.

By PAUL DONOVAN

What is the sports forecast for the Horned Frogs for the 1935-36 term? How do the various Purple teams stack up with rival Southwest Conference representatives competing for the coveted championships?

These questions are already being considered by coaches, athletes and followers of the University. The only clue to possible answers is to be found in the list of athletes who will represent the Purple in all sports next year.

First and most important of the sports on the calendar will be football. Next fall, with Coaches Dutch Meyer and Bear Wolf back at the helm, the Frogs will be fighting to win the championship which they have not held since the 1932 season.

Imposing Squad Line.

Heading the imposing list of candidates available for service next fall will be 21 lettermen, one of the largest number of experienced players ever to report for the Frog team. The remainder of the squad will be made up of the men who served as varsity reserves the past year and the 25 freshmen numbermen. There were ten who won reserve letters in 1934. This will give the Frogs a squad of 66 players if all return next fall.

Darrell Lester, all-American center the past year, will captain the 1935 eleven from the center position. Lester will be playing his final year for the Purple. His stellar play in 1934 marked the big Jackboro product as one of the leading players in the nation. With Lester in the center of the line again, and with capable lettermen at all other line positions, the Frogs are assured of a forward wall equal to any in the conference.

Coach Meyer will have a backfield boasting both speed and power. Nine lettermen are available for posts, in addition to a number of promising reserves and freshmen of the past year.

Passing Offense to Be Built.

Sam Baugh, passing artist, is expected to fill the quarterback position next year. He alternated at that point last fall with Capt. Joe Coleman, and he starred in every game he played. A flashy passing offense is being built around the Sweetwater star.

The running plays will feature Jimmy Lawrence, the hard runner from Harlingen, who has been called the hardest man to stop in the conference. These two ace backs will be ably assisted by Dutch Kline, Taldon Manton, Scott McCall and a host of others.

The entire squad stacks up as a powerful threat for conference honors in 1935. Barring injuries, the team is one that can't be overlooked when the picking is done next fall.

Cage Squad Looks Stronger.

Coach Meyer will again direct the Frog basketball team next year, and in this sport also the Purple will boast an ample supply of experienced candidates. Eight lettermen from last winter's team will be available next year. Willie Walls, forward, will be captain of the cagers.

Last year the Frog five finished in the cellar, winning only two games, but with the added experience and the help of several promising members of the freshman team, the 1936 team is certain to make a stronger showing.

The outlook for the spring of

Truelson Completes Busy Athletic Career

Big Senior Has Won 8 Letters in Various Sports in Past 3 Years.

Judy Truelson, senior athlete from Dallas, last week completed his busy athletic career with the Frogs. In his three years of varsity competition Truelson accomplished the unusual task of earning letters in four major sports, football, basketball, track and tennis.

The big senior, who will receive his degree Monday night, won a total of eight letters during the past three years. This number was made up of two in football, two in basketballs, three in tennis and one in track. Truelson served as captain of the basketball team this year, and was captain of the tennis team last spring. Truelson plans to leave at the close of school to take a position in Akron, Ohio.

Letters Awarded To 11 Tracksters

Eleven varsity letters have been awarded to members of the track team, Coach Poss Clark announced this week.

Those who earned the "T" in track are Capt. George Kline, Paul Hill, Cotto Harrison, Mitchell McGraw, Herman Pittman, Bob Harrell, Weyman Roberson, Tony Vargas, John Durrett, Donkey Roberts and George Magoffin.

Louise Trainer, ace sprinter who was kept out of competition this spring by injuries has been elected captain of the 1936 team.

Of the 11 lettermen seven will return next year. Those who completed their eligibility this spring are Hill, Pittman, Vargas and Magoffin.

In addition to the lettermen and Capt. Trainer Coach Clark's 1936 squad will be strengthened by such candidates as Rex Clark, Pat Clifford, Puss Erwin, Ray Wester and Allen House. With these men on hand Coach Clark is expecting one of the strongest Frog track teams in recent years.

Varsity Letters Given to Nine Men

Four Get Golf Awards While Five Receive Tennis Recognition.

Four varsity letters in golf and five in tennis were awarded last week to Frog athletes. The announcements were made by Athletic Director Raymond Wolf at the close of the conference meets in both sports.

The golf lettermen are Capt. Jimmy Walkup, Jack Panter, Loftis Stroud and Frank Floyd.

Those who won the "T" in tennis are Capt. Mark Hart, Judy Truelson, Don McLeland, Atys Gardner and Ronald Wheeler.

1936 is not so bright as in football and basketball, but again the Frogs will have an unusually large number of lettermen on hand in the various sports.

If Coach Wolf can bolster the pitching staff, he will have a baseball team equal in strength to any in the conference. The other departments of the nine are sure to pack both offensive and defensive power. It was in 1933 that the Purple last won a diamond championship.

Track Expected to Improve. Track Coach Poss Clark is expecting a larger squad in 1936, and is confident of producing a team that will be a more serious threat than was the 1935 squad.

Tennis and golf are doubtful issues, with a number of lettermen returning but no outstanding individual stars on the horizon.

With these prospects the Horned Frogs will enter the 1935-36 athletic season determined to regain a place in the champions' circle of the Southwest Conference.

Donovan's DOPE

By PAUL DONOVAN.

Time marches on! The day that I have been dreading to face is here, the day when I must sit down and write this column for the last time. This is just another one of the hard parts of graduation, when we have to give up the things that have come to mean so much to us.

In other years I have read what those before me have written on an occasion like this, and I have often wondered how such a task could affect them as it always seems to do. Now I know. Thoughts of past experiences just naturally begin running through your mind to make you realize how thrilling it has been and to make you wonder how you can turn away from it and keep smiling.

As I go on I think of all those in the school who have made life here so pleasant, and to these I want to pay thanks today.

First of all I want to thank Mr. Ridings for his patient training and helpful advice that he has given me in journalism. He has shown me the way if only I can follow it.

This is a tougher job than I thought it would be. By the time I get to the end, I'll probably be choked up. Maybe I ought to be like little Audrey and just laugh and laugh 'cause I know that getting that sheepskin won't make me a goat.

But to go on, sincere thanks to Presidents Waits, Dean Hall and the entire administration for their willing co-operation at all times. Every tangle has been straightened out to my advantage, and they have made the going easier when it began to get rough.

I thank Dutch Meyer for showing me how to be a man. Nobody could be around Dutch very long without getting at least a little of that spirit of determination from him. In three years of baseball under him I feel that I received not only lessons in baseball but also in character and sportsmanship. May I always remember these lessons, and profit by them.

And Bear Wolf too, the ideal coach in every respect. If I could be half as friendly and capable as Bear I would be satisfied. The others on the coaching staff too, Poss Clark and Howard Grubbs, round out one of the best staffs that could be found anywhere.

I'm getting sad again. Remember the time little Audrey went out to watch her dad and another man play a golf match. The two men got into an awful argument over one hole and the man pulled out a gun and shot little Audrey's dad. But she just laughed and laughed 'cause she always did want to see somebody shoot par. Now I am sad.

There are so many to whom I am indebted that it's impossible to name them all. There are all those teachers who have worked so diligently to help me get an education. The result is no fault of theirs. I am grateful to Dr. Clubb and Miss Major for giving me a taste for good reading, which I hope to develop. And to Mrs. Tucker for the most enjoyable and most impressive class work I have had.

And to Miss Carter, Dr. Morro, Prof. Hutton, Prof. McDiarmid, Dr. True and others for interesting and helpful training. They set an example which I hope to keep before me at all times.

Also I can't forget the business office. For some reason Mr. Duneagan and his helpers have always been glad to see me come in. And Mr. Pete Wright, who has always been a real friend to all of us.

And finally I wish to pay my respects to all those students who make this the finest and friendliest school in the country. Where could anyone find truer friends or better sports than we have here?

I also want to wish success to Dutch and Bear next fall, winter and spring. And to Melvin Diggs who will lead the student body next year. And to Raymond Michero who will edit The Skiff. And to the entire student body who will be helping in the progress of the University.

Here it is time to say farewell and I can't do it. Little Audrey went on a picnic one day and ate so much that she got deathly sick, but she just laughed and laughed 'cause she knew somebody would make a joke out of it.

Dutch and Bear Announce Plans Mentors to Attend Coaching Schools This Summer.

Coaches Leo "Dutch" Meyer and Raymond "Bear" Wolf, Frog football mentors, have announced that they will attend coaching schools this summer.

Coach Meyer, varsity grid director, plans to spend a few days at a time at several different schools in this section. His summer schedule has not been definitely completed as yet, so he is uncertain as to which school he will attend first. Several short trips about the state are also included in Coach Meyer's plans.

Bear Wolf, veteran line coach, has been signed to teach the fundamentals of line play at the Texas Tech Coaching School in Lubbock Aug. 5 to 17. Wolf will serve on the teaching staff composed of a group of the outstanding coaches of the nation. Included in this group are Coach Francis Schmidt, former Frog mentor now at Ohio State, Pop Warner, Jack Torrance, Blair Cherry and others.
