

Harris College to celebrate 50 years

HARRIS COLLEGE OF NURSING will celebrate 50 years of baccalaureate nursing education with a gala dinner April 26 at the Grand Ballroom of The Worthington Hotel in downtown Fort Worth.

The event will begin with a cash reception at 6:45 p.m. with dinner following at 7:30 p.m. The cost of the dinner is $35 and reservations must be made with Harris College at Ext. 7650.

Dr. Patricia Moccia, chief executive officer and executive vice president of the National League for Nursing, will be the featured speaker. The Outstanding Alumnus Award also will be presented at the event.

Dr. Moccia is "a mover and shaker" in the nursing industry, said Rhonda Keen-Payne, interim dean for Harris College.

Dr. Moccia has taught nursing at several universities as well as serving as a staff nurse in several hospitals and mental health care centers. She has spoken and written widely on the changes in health care and health care education, health care reform and the future of nursing.

As nursing's Green Honors Professor, Dr. Moccia also will give a free public lecture on health care issues important to nursing education and practice at 4 p.m., April 25, in Dan Rogers Hall, Room 134. A 3 p.m. reception in Dan Rogers Hall, Room 140, will precede the lecture.

For more information on the gala, Dr. Moccia's lecture or other Harris College anniversary events, call Ext. 7650. ♦

160-voice choir to honor Shirey

A SPECIAL APRIL 28 CHORAL event will honor Ronald Shirey, TCU director of choral activities, for his 20 years of service to the University.

Dr. Lara Hoggard will conduct "A German Requiem" by Johannes Brahms at the free public event, which is set for 7:30 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium. It will feature 160 voices from the TCU Choral Union and the University Christian Church Chancel Choir, as well as Steve Weger, Lorin Larson and Sydney Howell from the Fort Worth Symphony and TCU music faculty. TCU faculty member Janet Pummill will be organist-accompanist.

Dr. Hoggard, an internationally recognized artist-teacher and conductor, published a complete vocal-orchestral score of "A German Requiem" and has conducted it in many places. He presented the piece with TCU and UCC choirs in 1980 before translation and editing were completed on the current edition.

Cyclopedia of Music and Musicians," "A German Requiem" is unique, "first, because it bears no slightest resemblance to any other requiem, and second, because it swiftly established the universal fame of Brahms. Its quick acceptance was due to the beauty and expressiveness of its melodic ideas and its moving communication of resignation and faith." It is believed that the piece was composed from the grief Brahms felt upon the death of his mother and/or that of his friend and fellow composer Robert Schumann.

The choral groups also will perform "Personent Hodie," which Dr. Hoggard wrote for the inauguration of Dr. Bill Tucker as TCU's chancellor in April 1980. ♦

School of Education to host Green Honors Professor

THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION'S Department of Curriculum and Instruction will host Dr. Nel Noddings as a visiting Green Honors Professor April 25. Dr. Noddings will present "Caring and Equity in Today's Schools" at 5 p.m. in the TCU classroom at Starpoint School.

Dr. Noddings is the Lee L. Jacks Professor of Education at Stanford University. She received a bachelor's degree in mathematics from Montclair State College, a master's degree in mathematics from Rutgers University, and a Ph.D. in educational philosophy and theory from Stanford University. Dr. Noddings has published extensively in the areas of teacher education, mathematics education and philosophy of education.

For more information on Dr. Noddings' visit, call Ext. 7690. ♦

TCU Theatre to present Tandy RetroFest '96 offering

TCU THEATRE WILL SNARE three historical giants in an elaborate web in its upcoming Tandy RetroFest '96 production of "Travesties," a witty fantasy play by Tom Stoppard. Performances will be April 24-28 in the University Theatre.

In "Travesties," Stoppard weaves fiction from fact. Three revolutionaries, James Joyce, Vladimir Lenin and Dadaism founder Tristan Tzara, all lived contiguously in Zurich during World War I. There is no evidence that the men ever met, but in "Travesties" they do. "The story is told through the eyes of a minor British consulate, Henry Carr, in his senile reminiscences," explained George Brown, the play's director and a TCU theatre faculty member. "Because of his faulty memory, his importance in the events are magnified."

The play probes the relationship of political and artistic revolution, and art's purpose in society. "The heavy political discussions are laced with slapstick comedy," George said. "It ties in the tradition of the British music hall as well as burlesque and vaudeville. At times, the comedy borders on that of Monte Python."

TCU is among more than 60 area cultural and educational institutions participating in the Tandy RetroFest '96 celebration in February, March and April.

Performances of "Travesties" will be April 24-27 at 8 p.m., and April 27-28 at 2 p.m. TCU faculty, staff and students are admitted free. Call Ext. 7626 for reservations. ♦

Honor society to sponsor AIDS benefit concert

THE CHI TAU EPSILON dance honor society will sponsor two nights of dance performances April 26-27 to benefit the AIDS Outreach Center food pantry.

The fourth annual concert will begin both nights at 8 p.m. in the dance building's Studio B and will feature original student choreography by graduate and undergraduate students.

The society is urging audience members to donate a $5 admission charge. Other donations are welcome. Last year, the honor society raised $745 for the center.

The AIDS Outreach Center sponsors a variety of programs and services for individuals and families affected by AIDS. ♦

Daughters to visit campus

THE WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER is sponsoring a "Take an Adopt-A-Daughter to Work" day on April 25. Some 35 daughters of TCU faculty and staff will participate. The daughters, aged nine to 18 years, will be shown around campus by 17 TCU professionals or students. The event will be held in conjunction with the national "Take Our Daughters to Work" day. ♦

TCU hires new coach

MIKE PETERSON HAS BEEN HIRED as the new women's basketball coach. Mike compiled a record of 81 wins and 38 losses in four years as the head women's basketball coach at New Mexico State. His 1994 team made it to the National Women's Invitational Tournament.

Prior to coaching at NMSU, Mike was an assistant men's basketball coach at the University of Oregon and women's head coach at Gonzaga University in Spokane, Wash. ♦
