

TCU THIS WEEK

EVENTS AND INFORMATION FOR THE TCU COMMUNITY

VOL. 1, NO. 47

JUNE 17, 1996

Please pardon our dust Campus renovations under way

SINCE THE BEGINNING OF SUMMER, you may have noticed lots of dirt flying and other telltale signs of construction. In addition to the new Dee J. Kelly Alumni and Visitors Center, preliminary construction is also under way on the new F. Howard and Mary D. Walsh Center for Performing Arts. The alumni center will provide much-needed office space as well as a place for alumni to hold meetings, reunions and other post-graduate activities. Completion of the alumni center is set for October.

Campus and Fort Worth performing arts fans have been anticipating the new fine arts building that will boast a 325-seat recital hall, a 233-seat studio theatre, an instrumental rehearsal hall, a choral rehearsal hall and a piano wing. Completion of the performing arts center is set for the fall of 1997.

Another major renovation project on campus is Daniel-Meyer Coliseum. Perhaps the most notable change to the coliseum is the replacement of the old leaky roof with a new copper one. On the inside, the coliseum has new coats of purple and white paint.

Reed Hall and the Faculty Center are also in the process of being renovated. Physical Plant Director Will Stallworth said most of the resulting changes will bring Reed Hall, the oldest academic building on campus, up to par with the Americans with Disabilities Act. ♦

Young musicians to discover beauty of pipe organ

IMAGINE A ROOM, bright with ethereal decorations, stained glass windows and an instrument that provides music to calm the spirit and excite the soul. This June, many Tarrant County young musicians will experience the pipe organ for the first time. Area residents will also be able to discover its music with three free events designed to introduce Texans to the sounds of the pipe organ.

The TCU Summer Music Institute and the Fort Worth Chapter of the American Guild of Organists will host a "Pipe Organ Encounter," part of a nationwide project to introduce young musicians to the pipe organ. During the week of June 23-28, Fort Worth will be one of the stops the program has on its national tour.

Douglas Cleveland, winner of the American Guild of Organists National Organ Competition, will open the week's activities in Fort Worth with an organ recital at St. Stephen Presbyterian member for every two students. Approximately 150 young musicians will learn about the organ, from its history to construction and literature. This year, "Pipe Organ Encounters" will also include a pilot program for adult organ students.

"The size and expense of pipe organs often limit accessibility for beginners," says Barbara McKelway, head of the guild's New Organist Committee. "These encounters encourage them to fall in love with the instrument so they will want to commit to its study." ♦

TCU Press to help sponsor 'Texasbound'

TCU PRESS WILL JOIN WITH Arts & Letters Live to present the Fort Worth debut of "Texasbound," the highly successful Dallas-based program that features short stories by Texas writers read by actors with strong Texas ties.

Four actors are scheduled for the Fort Worth debut: Joe Sears, of "Greater Tuna" fame, reading "Mambo Panties" by Tom Doyal; John Benjamin Hickey, of Broadway's "Love! Valour! Compassion!," reading Miles Wilson's "On Tour with Max"; Julie White of TV's "Grace Under Fire," reading Mary K. Flatten's "Old Enough"; and author and performance artist Hermine Pinson of Houston reading her own work, "Kris/Crack/Kyle."

The performance is scheduled for July 17 at 7:30 p.m. at Stage West. Advance reservations are $10 for general admission, and $8 for senior citizens and students. Tickets are available at the box office at 3055 S. University, or by calling 784-9378 or 924-9454. Seating is limited.

Arts and Letters Live is a project of the Dallas Museum of Arts and the Friends of the Dallas Public Library. Throughout the year, it presents a series of events, including a Distinguished Writers Series, "Texasbound," and other programs combining literature and the arts. ♦

Library exhibit unveils the history of magic

THE LATEST IN A SERIES of Library of Congress exhibits called "Grand Illusions: The Art and Practice of Magic" has brought the world of magic and magical practices to the Mary Coats Burnett Library. The display consists of 16 panels that present reproductions of historic photographs, drawings, manuscripts and objects from the Library of Congress collections.

The exhibit is on display in the library's lobby until Aug. 16. Library hours are Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. ♦

New assistant coach helps prepare team

THE TCU WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL TEAM has taken another step toward preparing for its first season with the hiring of Gloria Clarke for the position of assistant women's volleyball coach. Gloria joins the Horned Frogs' first-year volleyball program after coaching for four years at the University of Northern Colorado in a similar position.

Prior to Northern Colorado, Gloria served two years as the assistant volleyball coach at Regis University in Denver, Colo.

While at UNC, Gloria served as the setters and servers coach, in addition to her duties as traveling and recruiting coordinator. She was also responsible for implementing the yearly conditioning programs there. Gloria has also served as a court coach for the Junior National Olympic team for the past two summers.

Gloria, a native of Pawnee, Ill., completed her B.S. in physical education from Eastern Illinois University in 1980, as well as her M.A. degree in sports administration from UNC in 1996. ♦

Places still open for writing workshop

IT'S NOT TOO LATE to sign up for a writing workshop on taking a down-to-earth approach to writing about the American West.

The half-day event will be held June 22 from 9 a.m. to noon with registration beginning at 8:30 a.m. Topics to be discussed include: "100 Ways to Make Your Living as a Writer," "Writing Western History for a Popular Market" and a discussion of the current market for Western fiction.

TCU Press is co-sponsoring the event in conjunction with the Office of Extended Education and Chisholm Trail Round-Up, Inc.

The fee for attending the workshop is $25. For more information, call the Office of Extended Education at Ext. 7132. ♦

MARKETPLACE

If you're an on-campus reader of TCU This Week, you'll find attached a coupon for a free cup of coffee or glass of iced tea at a TCU neighborhood establishment, Cat Daddy's Mystic Java Coffeehouse. Cat Daddy's is located at 3051 S. University just south of Jon's Grille. Coffeehouse summer hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday, and 10 a.m. to midnight Fridays and Saturdays.
