EVENTS AND INFORMATION FOR THE TCU COMMUNITY

VOL. 5, NO. 22

FEBRUARY 14, 2000

Happy Valentine's Day!

Berry St. eatery transformed into TCU Administrative Annex

THE OLD COLONIAL CAFETERIA AT THE corner of Berry Street and Sandage Avenue is looking more like a TCU building every day. And a recently completed sign over the doorway makes it official ... we now have a "TCU Administrative Annex."

The renovated structure will be the permanent location for the University's Institute of Behavioral Research after mid-April when Dwayne Simpson and his 35 IBR staff members move in. According to Larry Garrison (facilities planning), the former restaurant measures slightly under 10,000 square feet and provides about 6,500 square feet of usable office space. The interior was gutted as all the remnants of kitchen equipment and food service were hauled away.

The building is very well constructed, according to Larry. A new roof and air conditioning system were installed, new restrooms were built and all-new furnishings have been ordered. There will be ample parking across Sandage in leased space on the former Blockbuster lot.

Attractive curbside landscaping will improve the neighboring street scene. Although the structure is red brick, TCU brick is being added to the exterior. Whether or not to paint the outside is undecided at this point, Larry says.

"I think it's something TCU will be proud of," he says, with an eye to the finished project.

According to Will Stallworth (physical plant), the economics department will be relocated to the IBR trailer left vacant by the move. ♦

Grant will help underwrite master's degrees online

TCU HAS RECEIVED A $240,000 GRANT from eCollege.com to offer online master's degrees in both liberal arts and nursing. The University had already established a relationship with the Colorado-based company which provides the technology for TCU's existing online classes.

An online master's in liberal arts will be an added option to the MLA program. The nursing master's, however, will be a first-time offering and will only be available online. ♦

TCU'S CENTER FOR PRODUCTIVE Communication, along with the Fort Worth chapter of the International Association of Business Communicators, will co-host a Corporate Communication Workshop from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday at the Kelly Center.

The focus will be on "Communicating in a Changing World," offering instruction in intercultural, international and crisis communication. Also included will be seminars on videoconferencing and PowerPoint. Several TCU people will present workshops, including Randy Scoggin (instructional services), John Singleton (international student services), Diana Newbern (psychology), Kelli Horst

(office of communications), Greg Stephens (Neeley School), Shari Barnes (human resources) and Evelyn Roberts (nutrition & dietetics).

Jay Kizer, managing partner for Ray & Berndtson, will be keynote speaker at the Thursday luncheon. Workshop fee is $100, although there is a 33% discount for the TCU community; lunch is $25. For more information, or to register, call the CPC at ext. 7539 or e-mail cpc@tcu.edu ♦

TCU School of Music will spotlight faculty, students in contemporary program

"AN EVENING OF CONTEMPORARY Music," including composer David Evan Jones' computer generated work Scritto and his contemporary opera Bardos, is on tap Monday, Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Faculty and students in the TCU School of Music will perform, under the musical direction of Gerry Gabel. Admission is free.

The first half of the program includes composer David Gompper's Finnegan's Wake and Don't Go There. Gompper, who is director of the Center for New Music at the University of Iowa, will play, along with Blaise Ferrandino on double bass and Sydney Howell on harp. Student performers are Federico Perez Hood, Maria Garavito, Josh Davis and Joey Carter.

"Bardos is a tour de force, involving collaboration between music, theatre and dance," says Gerry. The cast includes Sheila Allen, Be Boyd (theatre), David Yeomans, Janet Pummill, Joey Carter, John Moran, Eric Dodson and members of the TCU Concert Chorale, directed by Ron Shirey. Kerry Kreiman (ballet & modern dance) is choreographer. Jones' chamber opera, dedicated to the memory of cancer victims, incorporates words from the traditional requiem mass with references from Buddhist traditions.

For more information, call ext. 7232. ♦

THE FRIENDS OF THE TCU LIBRARY WILL host Joyce Roach in a program titled "Shopping in Fort Worth, Texas" at 7 p.m. Feb. 18 in the library reading room.

Jim Lee (TCU Press) will introduce the folklorist and author.

Dessert will be served. Please make reservations at ext. 6109 no later than Feb. 16. ♦

SAICA brings "Experience India" with food, fashion

THE TCU CHAPTER OF STUDENTS FOR Asian-Indian Cultural Awareness is hosting its annual "Experience India" charity lunch and fashion show at noon Saturday, Feb. 26 in the Student Center ballroom.

The event, co-sponsored by the TCU International Student Association, will share traditions of India while raising funds for an orphanage and leprosy mission there.

"The Asian-Indian students on the TCU campus have established a tradition of involving the local community and the campus community in raising multicultural awareness while providing financial help for worthy causes in the Indian subcontinent," said Anantha Babbili (journalism), faculty advisor to SAICA. "It's amazing that such a small number of Asian-Indian students can do so much in this area."

The fashion show will feature TCU students modeling traditional Indian styles that may be purchased. Maharaja Restaurant will cater the buffet lunch. Admission is $12 for adults and $10 for students.

For more information or to purchase tickets contact Trupti Desai at 428-0754 or Shirley Sheth at 274-3932. ♦

George Brown promises laughs in Theatre production

COMEDY STRETCHING FROM LOW-brow to high-brow, making all the stops in between...that's the ticket to the TCU Theatre production Feb. 23-27 in Hays Theatre.

All in the Timing is the title of David Ives' six one-act comedies, directed by George Brown. He describes the work as a "crazy, eclectic" group of plays. "Any one of them can stand by itself, but they're all tied together by time," George explains. He notes that this production has become an extremely popular theatrical offering in the last couple of years and will be featured at the American College Theater Festival this spring in Washington, D.C.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Feb. 23-26 and at 2 p.m. Feb. 26-27. Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for seniors and children. Phone the box office at ext. 5770 for reservations. ♦

TCU Symphony program to feature Concerto winners

THE TCU SYMPHONY, CONDUCTED BY Germán Gutiérrez, will perform at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 15 in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The first concert of the spring traditionally features the winners of the recent Concerto Competition.

The program will include: The symphony playing Polonaise by Tchaikovsky; soprano Nicole McWilliams singing "Je dis, que rien" from the Bizet opera Carmen; Chayong Lee playing Violin Concerto No. 4 in D Major by Mozart, and pianist Chie Watanabe playing Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini, Op. 43 by Rachmaninoff. ♦

History conference to be downtown this week

THE DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY AND THE National Archives and Records Administration's Fort Worth office will co-host a conference Feb. 17-19 called "The Southwest: A Region in Transition." The meeting will be at the Clarion Hotel downtown.

The event, featuring speakers from around the nation, will focus on the history and various aspects of the region such as politics, agriculture and Mexican-American relations.

Chancellor Michael Ferrari will present opening remarks at 9 a.m. Thursday. Paul Boller (professor emeritus, Lyndon Baines Johnson Chair of History) will be the featured speaker at the Friday night session. The topic of his lecture will be "Lady Bird Johnson: Presidential Partner from Small Town Texas."

The fee for the three-day event is $25 and includes breakfast on Feb. 19. For more information contact the history department at ext. 7288. ♦
