EVENTS AND INFORMATION FOR THE TCU COMMUNITY

VOL. 12 NO. 7

OCTOBER 2, 2006

2nd Black Preaching Forum Oct. 15-17, sponsored by Brite's Black Church Studies

BRITE DIVINITY SCHOOL WILL HOST THE second annual "Preaching with Power: An Interdenominational Forum on Black Preaching" Oct. 15-17 at two city churches and on the campus. The event is sponsored by Brite's Black Church Studies Program, under the direction of Stacey Floyd-Thomas.

The schedule:

■ Sunday, Oct. 15, 7 p.m. at Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, 2823 N. Houston Street - featuring the Rev. Stephen John Thurston, president of the National Baptist Convention of America Inc. (NBCA).

■ Monday, Oct. 16, 7 p.m. at Carter Metropolitan CME Church, 4601 Wichita Street - featuring the Rev. Dr. Renita J. Weems, a former professor of Old Testament at Spelman College in Atlanta and Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

■ Tuesday, Oct. 17, 11 a.m. at Robert Carr Chapel at TCU - featuring the Rev. Dr. Frank A. Thomas, senior pastor of Mississippi Boulevard Christian Church in Memphis, TN.

All of the worship services are free and open to the public. Offerings and donations will go to support scholarships and programming for seminarians enrolled in the Black Church Studies Program at Brite Divinity School.

For more information, contact Stacey at ext. 7140 or the Rev. Dr. Michael Bell, Forum chair, at 817-534-1365. ♦

With Romy Hughes as interim director, Center for Teaching Excellence sails through fall

Class of 2009 of Neeley Fellows are introduced

THIRTY SOPHOMORE BUSINESS STUDENTS were selected to be the first group of Neeley Fellows. All have exceptional GPAs, work and community service experience, are involved in campus organizations and received strong letters of recommendation.

The inaugural Neeley Fellows class began with an opening reception for students and their parents on Aug. 25, followed by a professional development orientation on Sept. 1. On Oct. 5, they will participate in a retreat at Beaumont Ranch.

"At the retreat, the Neeley Fellows will integrate their new self-knowledge into a clear picture of how they can make a difference in the world," said program director Beata Jones.

The Neeley Fellows program includes a range of learning opportunities, including academically challenging business classes, work for clients, business tours, travel to New York and abroad, and a personalized professional development program to help the students develop and succeed upon graduation.

Applications were received from 75 students, and 30 were chosen. Neeley Fellow Mariana Morales said she applied to the program "because it would stimulate my academic potential and enrich my professional development." ♦

TCU Honors Program presents

Dr. Sanjay Gupta

CNN's Doctor in the Danger Zone

The network medical correspondent and practicing neurosurgeon will discuss his experiences covering the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina, tsunami-ravaged Sri Lanka, battle-field medicine in Iraq and how to prepare for the next health crisis.
