

TCU THIS WEEK

EVENTS AND INFORMATION FOR THE TCU COMMUNITY

VOL. 12 NO. 34

June 4, 2007

PianoTexas at TCU offers three weeks of classical music June 7 – July 1

PIANOTEXAS INTERNATIONAL ACADEMY & Festival will unfold on the TCU campus June 9 – July 1, featuring performances by piano talents both young and old while aspiring young professionals, longtime music teachers and avid amateurs immerse themselves in the world of piano. It's an event not to be missed by anyone who loves and appreciates fine music, especially since daily recitals by non-professionals are free and all events are open to the public. An international lineup of guest artists make up this year's faculty and most will be featured in piano performances in PepsiCo Recital Hall, as well as master classes which the public can observe. Visit www.pianotexas.org for a complete schedule of events, details on the music to be performed by each guest artist and online ticket sales.

Highlights include:
Distinguished Artist Series:
General admission for each concert is $20, $16 for seniors and music teachers, $10 for students.

A community dedicated to learning, TCU educates individuals to think and act as ethical leaders and responsible citizens in the global community.

The T Service Change

TO BETTER SERVE TCU'S PUBLIC

transportation needs, the Fort Worth Transportation Authority (The T) implemented a service change affecting TCU Route 7 effective Sunday, May 20.

The T also implemented later bus service from the downtown Intermodal Transportation Center for Route 7, a heavily traveled route that covers major portions of University Drive and serves the cultural district and TCU area. The service added one later trip weekday evenings at 10:15 p.m. and three additional trips on Saturday evenings at 8:15, 9:15 and 10:15 p.m. The T is free to all TCU students and staff by presenting a TCU ID. Visit <http://www.the-t.com/Routes/routes.html> for more information. ♦

Mental Health Community Meeting open to public

TCU WILL BE THE VENUE FOR A SYMPOSIUM called Bridging the Gap. Following the symposium, Drs. David Cross and Karyn Purvis will speak at a community meeting regarding mental health in Tarrant County at 7 p.m. on Tuesday in the Kelly Center. The speakers will re-cap the symposium results, the resources currently available in the community and ways people can access those resources. The community meeting is free to attend and open to the public. ♦

Hampton Sides lecture open to the public

HAMPTON SIDES WILL PRESENT: "BLOOD and Thunder: Kit Carlson, the Navajos, and the Conquest of the American West" at a public lecture Tuesday in the Fort Worth Public Library auditorium at 6:30 p.m.

The presentation is part of a four-day conference titled The West and Shaping of America. Several TCU faculty/staff members will also present at the invitation only conference for Texas teachers held mainly on campus. The presenters include Gregg Cantrell, Nowell Donovan, Charlotte Hogg, Todd Kerstetter, Gene Smith, and Mary Volcansek. ♦

KUDOS

The Institute of Math, Science & Technology Education was named in the House of Representatives of the State of Texas Resolution (#904) and the Senate of the State of Texas Resolution (#541). The resolutions honored the activities of the collaboration between the Japanese Fulbright Memorial Funds, the Callisburg ISD, North Central Texas College, the Texas Regional Collaborative and the Institute of Math, Science & Technology Education.

Recently TCU was named one of Fort Worth's Great Places to Work by Fort Worth, Texas magazine. According to the article, the companies were chosen based on their relationships with their consumers and how well they please their employees. The organizations ensure that morale stays high and stress stays low by providing a comfortable environment, providing rewarding work and understanding the value of a great employee. TCU was chosen as one of 22 Fort Worth organizations for the elite list.

The Neeley School of Business was selected as one of nine finalists in the 2007 Mayor's Global Business Award presented by the City of Fort Worth, Fort Worth International Center, Fort Worth Business Press, and the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce. The finalists were selected based on their involvement in the global community and their excellence in international business. ♦
