Schieffer School to co-sponsor programs with D.C. think tank

THE SCHIEFFER SCHOOL AND THE CENTER for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, D.C., have announced a new series of dialogues with journalists and public policy experts to be held in the nation's capital.

The series, Dialogues in Public Policy and the Media, will be jointly sponsored by the Schieffer School and CSIS and will be hosted by Bob Schieffer. The programs will be held at CSIS headquarters at 1800 K Street NW in Washington. The first event will be at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27 to discuss the current situation in Afghanistan.

Participants will be Lt. Gen. David Barno (US Army, ret.), R. Nicholas Burns (Undersecretary of State for Political Affairs), Steve Coll (CEO, New America Foundation and staff writer for the New Yorker) and Rick Barton (co-director, Post Conflict Reconstruction Project).

"This is a great opportunity for the Schieffer School, since CSIS is one of the most respected institutions of its kind in the world," said Schieffer. "Their resident fellows and associates are called upon by every major news organization every day to provide insight into the complex issues facing the world."

CSIS is an independent, bipartisan public policy institute that provides strategic insights and policy solutions for decision makers in government, international institutions, the private sector and civil society.

The CSIS-Schieffer School programs can be seen live on the Schieffer School Web site: www.schiefferschool.tcu.edu. To be added to the e-mail list to receive each program notice, contact Nancy Styles at ext. 7808. ♦

Changes in London study abroad in line with Spain, Italy programs

CENTER FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDIES: TCU Abroad has redefined its fall and spring semester program in London to provide students a broader collection of courses and opportunities to interact with international students and better align it with TCU programs located in Spain and Italy.

The TCU in London program will partner with the University of Westminster, which is home to 4,000 international students from 160 countries. In addition to living on the Westminster campus, TCU students can enroll in a wide variety of courses such as the humanities and social sciences, natural sciences, business, computer science and the fine arts. Westminster professors will teach the classes.

"The new vision for TCU in London embraces important academic features of study abroad including TCU students taking course work with other international students and living on a university campus," said Jane Kucko, director

Watch this week's lunar eclipse through on-campus telescopes

TCU IS HOSTING A PUBLIC LECTURE AND lunar eclipse-watching event on campus Wednesday. The lecture by Doug Ingram (physics & astronomy) will begin in Sid Richardson Lecture Hall 2 at 7 p.m.

Guests may then begin viewing the eclipse through telescopes and binoculars in the plaza outside Mary Coats Burnett Library at 8 p.m. The moon will begin to darken then and will be completely eclipsed by 9 p.m. The total eclipse will last until approximately 9:45 p.m.

Viewers can expect to see Mars and Saturn, as well as the star Regulus (which is the heart of the constellation Leo), and the constellations of the Winter Circle. This event is free and open to the public.

In case of inclement weather, guests may attend a second lecture in Sid Richardson LH 2 from 8 - 10 p.m. with a narrated slide show about the objects and constellations currently in the sky. ♦

Organ recital Friday will showcase guest artist Engels

GERMAN ORGANIST STEFAN ENGELS WILL perform a free, public concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The program will include works by Sigfrid Karg-Elert, Karl Hoyer, Johann Sebastian Bach and César Franck.

Educated in both Germany and the U.S., Engels maintains a vigorous international concert schedule and is a sought-after teacher

Classic comedy Private Lives onstage here Feb. 26 - March 2

THEATRE TCU PRESENTS NOEL COWARD'S Private Lives Feb. 26 - March 2 in the Buschman Theatre. First produced in 1930, Private Lives is considered one of the enduring successes of modern comedic theater.

Performances are at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 26 - March 2 and 2:30 p.m. March 1 - 2. Tickets are priced at $10 for the public or $5 for TCU faculty, staff, students and seniors, and available through the box office. Phone ext. 5770 for reservations. ♦

Sessions on theology and the death penalty set for weekend

THE SOCIETY OF BIBLICAL LITERATURE IS partnering with Brite Divinity School and the TCU Religion Department in a two-day event Feb. 22-23 that will bring biblical and theological scholarship in dialogue with the on-the-ground pastoral work around the prison and justice systems in Texas. All events are in Weatherly Hall at Brite and are free and open to the public.

At 7 p.m. Friday, author Virginia Stem Owens, a longtime resident of Huntsville, will discuss the complex and painful ways the justice system affects those who live within and without the prison walls. She and her husband, David, wrote Living Next Door to the Death House.

Saturday workshops are scheduled for 8:30 a.m. to noon. Topics are: Is Capital Punishment Wrong? by Jack Hill (religion), Postcolonial Biblical Reflections on Capital Punishment by Francisco Lozado Jr. (Brite) Rene Girard and the Death Penalty by Charles Bellinger (Brite) and Sociology of the Death Penalty by Roger Barnes of University of Incarnate Word, San Antonio. ♦

Heads up! Edens Green, Deco Deli closing down

RESIDENTIAL SERVICES AND SODEXHO announce the impending closure of the two dining venues located in the basement of Reed Hall. Edens Green and Deco Deli will be gone after March 7 to enable work crews preparation time for summer construction.

Those accustomed to eating in those areas will be able to get made-to-order lunchtime sandwiches and dinner salads in the Main, and additional seating will be available to accommodate the extra diners. ♦

KUDOS

TCU staffers and students received numerous ADDY Awards recently presented by the American Advertising Federation of Fort Worth. Tracy Bristol (publications) took a Gold award as art director for a feature on immigration in The TCU Magazine. Also cited for the spread were Rick Waters and Nancy Bartosek (editorial services). Allie Regan (publications) received a Gold award as art director for a Christmas card she designed for Admission, along with Liz Perkins (admission marketing director). Allie also took a Bronze ADDY for her design of the Requiem program produced for the School of Music.

TCU ad students from the Real World Agency won "Best of Show" in the student division and garnered more awards than any other area school.

A book published by TCU Press, Steven Fromholz New & Selected Poems 07, took a Silver ADDY for Fusion 29, the design group that created the cover art.

Joe Eckert (School of Music) was asked to fill in on saxophone and clarinet for the recent Fort Worth and Dallas productions of Jazz Royalty. The show was a collaboration between Cleo Laine, Sir John Dankworth and Texas Ballet Theater.

DEATH

Condolences are extended to Cindy Matthews (printing services) on the death of her mother, Mona Marinelli, Feb. 11 in Fort Walton Beach, FL. A funeral service was held there Feb. 14.
