EVENTS AND INFORMATION FOR THE TCU COMMUNITY

VOL 13 NO. 25

MARCH 17, 2008

BusinessWeek magazine ranks Neeley No. 32 in undergraduate B-schools

BUSINESSWEEK MAGAZINE HAS REVEALED the third annual ranking of U.S. undergraduate business programs, and the Neeley School rose to No. 32 out of 196 schools. Neeley ranked No. 39 last year. The University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School ranks No. 1.

Neeley ranks 4th for Return on Investment for private schools, the highest ranking undergraduate business school in Texas. Brigham Young, Miami and Cornell are 1, 2, 3, respectively. Neeley ranks 10th for Hardest Working Students, again the highest among Texas undergraduate business schools. Finally, TCU's business school ranks 33rd for undergraduate internships.

Neeley's Teaching Quality grade is A; Facilities and Service grade is A+, and Job Placement grade is A.

BusinessWeek uses nine distinct measures, including surveys of 80,000 business majors and more than 600 corporate recruiters, the median starting salaries for graduates, and the number of graduates each program sends on to the preeminent MBA programs. They also calculate an academic quality score by combining SAT scores, faculty-student ratios, class size, the percentage of students with internships, and the number of hours students spend on class work each week.

The Neeley School makes up about one-third of TCU's undergraduate population.

Bill Moncrief, senior associate dean for undergraduate programs, says: "We know we have an outstanding undergraduate program even without this high ranking, because our applications increase each year. Rankings such as BusinessWeek's raise our profile. Students are taking notice of TCU for undergraduate business education, and are making smart choices about business degrees and careers." ♦

FWSO conductor Miguel Harth-Bedoya added to School of Music faculty

CONDUCTOR MIGUEL HARTH-BEDOYA, music director of the Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra since 2000, will become Distinguished Guest Professor of Conducting in the TCU School of Music, effective immediately. The appointment was announced March 5 by Richard Gipson (director, School of Music) and Scott Sullivan (dean, College of Fine Arts).

Miguel will work with students in the graduate and undergraduate conducting program, as well as the orchestral and chamber music studies programs, in addition to maintaining his regular schedule with FWSO and as a guest conductor for other orchestras, operas and music festivals worldwide.

"We are delighted that Miguel has agreed to join our University," said Dr. Sullivan. "Our faculty and students will gain immensely from his extraordinary talent as a conductor and his knowledge and enthusiasm for Latin American music, an area of special focus in our School of Music."

"We have been fortunate to have Maestro Harth-Bedoya work with our students before," said Dr. Gipson, "but this arrangement will make it possible for even more of them to interact with and learn from him. He is an extraordinary musician."

About his new relationship with TCU, Miguel stated, "I am so excited to be associated with a great institution like TCU. I am very much looking forward to contributing to the conducting studies program in a more structured way."

A native of Peru, Harth-Bedoya received his bachelor's degree in conducting from the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia and a master's degree in conducting at The Juilliard School in New York City. Upon graduation, he took over as music director of the New York Youth Symphony at Carnegie Hall, while also serving as staff conductor with the New York Philharmonic and a member of the conducting faculty at Juilliard.

By the time he moved to Fort Worth in 2000, Harth-Bedoya had co-founded a philharmonic orchestra and opera in Lima, Peru, and served as music director for both the Auckland Philharmonia in New Zealand and the Eugene Symphony in Oregon for several years. Since that time, his list of credits has expanded to include a full calendar of prestigious year-round engagements [visit www.miguelharth-bedoya.com].

Miguel Harth-Bedoya and his wife, Maritza, have three young children and make their home in Fort Worth. ♦

Communications dean candidates will soon arrive for Open Forums

THE THREE FINAL CANDIDATES FOR the position of Dean of the College of Communication have been scheduled to visit campus and meet the TCU community. Each will participate in an Open Forum on their scheduled date. The format will be a 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. session in the Roach Conference Room 139 of the Tucker Technology Center. The schedule:

March 26 - Dr. Howard Sypher, professor and head of the department of communication, Purdue University.

March 31 - Dr. Judy VanSlyke Turk, professor and director of the School of Mass Communications, Virginia Commonwealth University.

April 1 - Dr. David Whillock, professor and associate dean of the College of Communication, TCU.

Following each Forum, faculty are invited to meet the candidate from 10:30 - 11:10 a.m. in Tucker rm. 200. ♦
