to have this opportunity and appreciate all the support I've received."

Most of Mary's 38-year career has been in early childhood education with a focus on play and education, along with multicultural and urban education. She has held numerous professional and service positions including Tarrant County College Advisory Committee for Child Development and board member and past president for the Texas Association of Early Childhood Teacher Educators. Most recently, she was accepted to the Harvard Institute for Management and Leadership in Education. An avid published scholar, Dr. Patton has also given numerous presentations nationally and internationally.

At TCU, Mary was a recipient of the Distinguished Alumni and Distinguished Friends of Education, College of Education, and three-time finalist for the Wassenich Award for Mentoring. She has also served on dozens of committees and task forces for the College of Education and at the University.

Prior to joining TCU in 1994 as an associate professor, Mary was an education professor at the University of New Mexico. She grew up in Austin, worked for 17 years in the public school system as a teacher in special and regular education and also taught at the University of Texas at Austin and was a project director at Central Texas College.

Mary earned her B.S. and M.Ed. in special education from the University of Texas at Austin, her Ed. Adm. in educational administration from Portland State University and her Ph.D. in early childhood education from the University of Texas at Austin. ♦

Scott Williams receives Honors Faculty Award

SCOTT G. WILLIAMS, ASSOCIATE professor of German and director of the Language

Learning Media Center (AddRan College of Liberal Arts), was presented with the 2009 Honors Faculty Recognition Award during the 34th annual Honors Convocation last week.

Scott earned a B.A. in history from Stephen F. Austin University and a Magister Artium in Greek and Roman history and archaeology (with a minor in American literature) from the Universitat Hamburg. With a Ph.D. in comparative literature from the University of Texas at Austin, Scott lived in Hamburg, Germany for 10 years.

Scott has been at TCU since 2005. As an Honors professor, he teaches Greek and Roman traditions in the program's Civilizations track.

His areas of interest include the reception of classical Greece and Rome in modern literature, contemporary German literature, translation studies, Computer Assisted Language Learning (CALL), and cyberstudies. His most recent article concerns the intersection of translation theory and cultural studies: "Rewriting Rome in post-1945 German-language Literature: Examining Image, Norm, Habitus, Tertium comparationis" (ACROSS Languages and Literature). He is currently working on issues of translation, localization, and globalization. ♦

Nursing students organize Health Fair for April 24

HARRIS COLLEGE OF NURSING & HEALTH Sciences, in collaboration with the TCU Wellness Committee, is hosting a TCU Connections Health Fair on April 24 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the University Rec Center, Multi-purpose Rm 1. The event is being organized by nursing students in the public health practicum. There will be door prizes and refreshments.

Based on information received from the TCU Wellness Committee, the fair has been tailored to address issues TCU employees indicated are important to them such as diabetes, obesity, stress management, and heart issues. At the event, nursing students will provide various resources and tool kits concerning access to a variety of healthcare resources for those with limited or no health care coverage. For any questions, contact m.r.mckee@tcu.edu or a.j.green@tcu.edu. ♦

Dates for football weekends

THE ALUMNI RELATIONS OFFICE HAS RELEASED the dates for fall's big football weekends. They include:

- Family Weekend - Oct. 2-3 (SMU game)
- Clark Weekend - Oct. 16-17 (Colorado State game)
- Homecoming Weekend - Oct. 30-31 (UNLV game)
- Frogs for the Cure - Nov. 14 (Utah)

This year's big Alumni Association football trip will be to Charlottesville Sept. 10-13 for the TCU vs. University of Virginia football game. The schedule includes a trip to Monticello and tour of the historic University of Virginia campus. Other options are a wine-tasting on Monticello's terrace and dinner at the Kluge Estate Winery and Vineyard.
