The Campaign for TCU tops $200 million, 80 percent of goal for 2012

TCU HAS ANNOUNCED THAT THE CAMPAIGN for TCU, the University's fund raising campaign, has passed the $200 million mark. The total goal of the campaign is $250 million.

"This is an amazing accomplishment," said Matthew K. Rose, TCU board of trustee member and campaign chair. "We have raised 80 percent of the campaign goal to create a world-class, values-centered university experience — in spite of the ongoing recession," said Rose who also is CEO of BNSF Railway. "Only 56 percent of the campaign time has elapsed."

Not only does the campaign benefit TCU, but it also impacts the Fort Worth community.

"We are delighted to have such widespread support," said Chancellor Victor J. Boschini, Jr. "Some 27,495 contributors have made gifts or pledges to this campaign. Not only are their gifts improving the experience of TCU students, but many gifts are also serving the greater good. To give just two examples, the Andrews Institute for Mathematics, Science & Technology Education is improving the teaching of mathematics and science in our nation's schools, while the Institute of Child Development is conducting important research to improve the lives of at-risk children and their families."

Donors have committed more than $46 million for academic programs and faculty support.

About $29 million has been directed toward endowed scholarships. Almost $25 million has been raised for the Annual Fund, which supports the university budget and further benefits scholarships and academic programs. Almost $8 million has been committed for other projects.

The Campaign for TCU is also helping to underwrite a campus transformation with facilities such as the Mabee Foundation Education Complex with Betsy and Steve Palko Hall; Clarence and Kerry Scharbauer Hall, a new academic facility; the Sam Baugh Indoor Practice Facility & Cox Field; the Brown-Lupton University Union; and four residence halls in the new Campus Commons: Amon G. Carter Hall, Teresa and Luther King Hall, Mary and Robert J. Wright Hall and Kellye Wright Samuelson Hall. The total amount given for facilities is $92 million.

A number of significant gifts and pledges have boosted the campaign total, including 41 of $1 million or more.

Currently, the top campaign priority is scholarships, and the university continues to raise funds for endowed positions, academic programs, faculty support and other needs.

The campaign, which began in June 2005, is slated to finish in 2012. ♦

Free hearing screenings May 26

MAY IS NATIONAL BETTER HEARING AND Speech Month. To recognize that, and to encourage people to incorporate hearing tests into their annual health check-ups, Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic will offer free screenings on a reservation basis, on Tuesday, May 26 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. RSVP at ext. 7620.

The 30-minute screenings, available to adults and children ages four and older, consist of a 15-minute preliminary evaluation to determine hearing loss and a 15-minute counseling session to explain test results. Screenings will be conducted by TCU graduate students, supervised by ASHA-certified (American Speech Language Hearing Association) audiologists.

"Hearing loss affects one out of every four persons over the age of 60 and increases to one out of three over age 70," said Helen Morrison, associate professor in TCU's Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders. "With noise exposure (video games, stereos), noise-related hearing loss is appearing as early as school age. Even minimal loss has been demonstrated to affect language development and school performance."

TCU has offered the free hearing clinic for the past 18 years. Last year, 25 percent of the participants exhibited some sort of hearing problem. ♦
