SKIFF

4 Negroes To Enroll

Three advanced Negro students will enroll in Harris College of Nursing this fall under a new policy approved by the executive committee of the University's trustees last spring.

Two are seniors and graduates of St. Joseph Hospital School of Nursing and the Wichita General Hospital School of Nursing.

The other is a junior and attended Dillard University in New Orleans.

They will enroll in classes which will permit them to secure degrees in nursing.

One Negro will continue enrollment in Brite College of the Bible.

Under the new policy, Negroes studying for the ministry may enroll in undergraduate classes if needed to meet degree requirements. But University officials say none is expected to do so.
