Texas Scores Overhead But Loses to Fordham, 7-6

Ram Rally Tops T.C.U., 7-6

Columbia, N.Y.U. Upset

By KEN SMITH.

CONFRONTED by a Texan Christian "stop" sign five times on the 4, 15, 1, 2 and 2-yard lines, Fordham finally got a green light in the last quarter, driving 95 yards to a hair-raising 7-6 victory in the Polo Grounds yesterday.

Twenty-five thousands fans, many of whom ached for offensive action last week, saw the intersectional rivals keep up a running fire of ground gobbling all afternoon.

Even with the brilliant Davey O'Brien in good form, the locals out-passed the Southwesterners, setting up the victory with a 28 yard Granski to Fortunato heave. Fordham was goaded to its wildest offensive spree shown in several years by Texas Christian's early touchdown.

With the Ram second team on the field at the start, O'Brien ran back the opening kickoff 58 yards to Fordham's 38. Clifford picked up eight yards and O'Brien hurled a 21 yard pass to Looney who fumbled, Beal recovering on Fordham's 19. However, Beale fumbled a bad pass from center, Aldrich recovering on Fordham's 13.

O'BRIEN TOSS SCORES.

The first string Rams were rushed in and although they stopped one running play and one pass, O'Brien flung to Clifford over the goal line. Davey's try for point was short.

Over and over again the Rams knocked at the Horned Frog goal line to no avail. But they didn't lose patience, even when T. C. U. finally took charge of the offense in the last quarter. O'Brien pegged 28 yards to Clifford for a first down on Fordham's 17 but Granski intercepted one on his 5 and the drive was on.

Kazlo passed 25 yards to Fortunato to his 30 stripe. Then Kazlo tore off an 18-yard run and a 12-yard forward-lateral, Granski to Fortunato to Jacunski planted the ball on the Texas 40, where Principe fumbled, White recovering for the visitors.

GRANSKI GOES TO TOWN.

However, on the next play, Clark fumbled, Fortunato recovering on the 40. Granski tossed a short pass to Druze. Then he hauled off with a 28-yard heave to Fortunato for the first down on the Texas 8.

All afternoon T. C. U. had been sopping the Rams in similar spots but this time Principe dug six yards in two plays, then plunging through the middle for the touchdown.

Off the bench sprang a heavy, touselled headed figure in a spick and span uniform. It was Wilbur Stanton, of Malden, Mass., who only appears when the Rams need some fancy booting. They wiped off Wilbur's toe with a rag and lined up. The ball came back low but Fortunato quickly adjusted it in place and bingo over the bars it sailed for the victory.

This was the climax of one of

Tigers Defeat Rutgers, 6-0, In Hard Battle

By JIM JENNINGS.

PRINCETON, N. J.—Rutgers' hitherto undefeated, untied and unscored, bowed 6-0 to Princeton on a rain-soaked field before 18,000 in Palmer Stadium today.

Rutgers team lived up to its reputation as a squad far superior to any scarlet outfit seen here since the two colleges played the first football game ever contested here in 1869.

The Orange and Black scored in the first period. From the Tiger 44, Hinchman could make but two yards in a thrust through right tackle and then faded to the 45 where he got off a pass which Hinchman then swept around right end and was downed one foot from the goal line. Taylor ripped through center for the touchdown. His attempt for the conversion was blocked by Craig.

THERE is plenty of moaning on Morningside Heights this morning. For Columbia, expected to beat Brown University by several touchdowns, went down to an ignominious 7 to 6 defeat on the slippery turf of Baker field yesterday.

It was the first time since 1932 that a Brown eleven had whipped the Lions, but there wasn't anyone among the crowd of 8,000 who could deny the Bears deserved their victory.

They fought hard. They held the Lions scoreless in the first half, twice on their 21 and once on their 2, after Hub Schulze failed to kick a field goal from the 7.

Columbia got break there, for a Brown man was offside at the time and the ball was placed on Brown's 2 on fourth down. Here, Sid Luckman tried to get through, but the Bears' line held as the half closed.

SCHULZE MISSES POINT.

But there was hope for the Lions when, midway in the third period, they managed to push over their lone touchdown. But Schulze who had again been rushed into the game to kick, failed to convert the extra point and that failure, as subsequent events proved, was the difference between defeat and at least a tie.

The Bears marched 93 yards to their touchdown early in the fourth period. Once having taken the lead, they fought desperately, thwarting a last minute attempt by the Lions. Starting on their own 20-yard line, the Lions, aided considerably by five completed passes thrown by Luckman, reached Brown's 9-yard line. At that point, Bobby Taylor slipped when he had only a half yard to go for a first down. Columbia lost the ball on downs and, before Brown had a chance to make a play, the final whistle ended the game and Columbia's hopes.

The Lions' score came about eight minutes after the third period had elapsed. After an exchange of punts, Columbia found itself on Brown's 48. Taylor picked up 15 and Luckman 7. A pass, Luckman's pass on the goal line for the score. Schulze, however, failed to convert. Brown moved on to victory from her own 7 in the final session marked by a run of 43 yards by Irving Hall, and two fine passes thrown by Atwell. The drive came to a successful end with two passes. The first of these was deflected by Sposato into the hands of Foster on the Lions' 4. An off-side penalty setn them back to the 9. But another pass, Atwell to

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY suffered two major setbacks in the wide open spaces of the Yankee Stadium yesterday.

Artistically they were dunked in the mud by an underrated Lafayette eleven which produced a vaunted aerial barrage to score a 13 to 0 upset.

Financially, they suffered from a combination of circumstances—the rain and the expectancy of a walkover—which brought a measly 7,000 through the turnstiles.

The victory, Lafayette's fourth straight, continued the Leopards in the undefeated class.

With Jimmy Kearns, a triple threat from Orange, N. J., and Leo ochowski, of West Hazleton, Pa., pitching the strikes, Lafayette registered first, in the second period and once more in the final quarter.

The first touchdown saw Kearns heave a long forward from his own 48 which Hal Simmons took on the Violets' 35 to score standing up. Max Greulich was the receiver of Zochowski's pass for the second touchdown in the early moments of the last period, snaring it on the Violets' 15 in the deep corner of the field and registering unmolested.

The Violets made many forays into Lafayette territory, but could not produce any scoring punch. They fumbled in "crucial" spots and Ed Williams, the fleet full-back who ran wild in a 46-to-0 rout of Lafayette last season, was completely bottled by the Lafayette line.

FOUR MORE VIOLETS HURT.

Four of the Hall of Famers became hospital cases as a result of the game. Stanley Mikulka and Woodrow Wittekind received head concussions, Arthur Schneider a torn cartilage in his left leg and Rocco Pauline a back injury.

Pauline is believed lost to the team for the year. The quartet, all backfield men, are in the French Hospital receiving treatment.

The first period featured a punting duel between Dunney and Kearns and Howie's superior kicking had the leopards on the defensive for the entire quarter. The Violets made two sizeable forays into Lafayette's territory, the second of these taking then to the Leopards' 31, where they faltered as the period ended.

Early in the second period, Kearns got off a boot to the Violet 5. Dunney kicked out to the Leopards' 47.

Kearns soon faded back and got off a long heave to Simmons, who snared it on N. Y. U.'s 35 and galloped for a touchdown. Cavallo kicked the point.

Five plays later Kearns completed a heave to Simmons from the Violet 48 and Simmons lateralled to Cavallo, who dashed to the N. Y. U. 9. Here, however, the Violet line held.

The breaks went against the Violets in the early minutes of the third quarter when Boell fumbled.

(UP).—Green-clad Manhattan came to the Blue Grass country today for a return engagement with Kentucky.

Kentucky won, 19-0.

Kentucky kicked off to Manhattan and Jasper line plays failed. A poor Manhattan punt went out on Manhattan 8. A line play gained two yards and Davids passed to Robinson in the end zone for a touchdown.

field to a touchdown. Garland's conversion effort failed.

Manhattan started a drive late in the quarter from its 20, but the attack bogged down on its own 40.

Davis was replaced by his brother, Dameron Davis, as the second period opened. The Jaspers made their initial first down on a pass, Migdal to Mitchell, but the next pass was intercepted by D. Davis at midfield and he raced to the Jasper 30. D. Davis passed to Garland for another touchdown.

Kentucky later paraded to the Manhattan 27, where the Wilcats lost the ball on downs. The Jaspers came to life and started a wild drive that carried to Kentucky's 24, where Hinkebein recovered a fumble, as the period ended.

Monty Refuses to Tell of His Sports Deeds

Friend Relates
Golf, Batting Feats

By BOB CONSIDINE

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 23.—John Montague Laverne Moore Jean Valjean, the tubby defendant in the first sports page trial since the Black Sox affair, is extremely modest about the biological accident that gave him tremendous natural athletic ability.

Your persevering agent has attempted, for nearly a week, to get him to speak of his sports feats, but all he will say is, "I'm not saying anything, until this thing is over."

He even turned down an invitation to throw out the first bunker, in a golf duel between the Fats and the Leans among the visiting newspapermen. "You won't get me on a course," he said in the quick masculine undertone he uses, "until this thing blows over."

Consequently, to get a picture of the great man's sports background, we have had to turn to his friends, who sit around the stove in the Deer's Head pub each night, and speak out loudly and bravely on the chunky golfer—strong man—except now and then when Monty comes in to gulp a quickie, and go. There was a great group of Monty's Boswells shouting above the moo of the nickel phonograph last night—and though we arrived at our corner at an early hour, the stories were already well under way, and heading for rarer altitudes.

"I was with Utica the year we picked up Moore," spoke up Mr. "Ten Yards" Steffins, who gained his nickname from his heroic football deeds at Colgate, and who is now (1) a prosperous whiskey agent, and (2) one of the witnesses who will testify that Monty is okay.

"And if I never move from this spot, this story is true. One afternoon in batting practice at the Utica Park he hit the longest ball I've ever seen in my life—and I've seen them all. Our left field fence at Utica is an even 500 feet from the plate. Well, he leaned against a pitch and knocked it over the wall. It's never been done before, and never will be again.

Hits Sign 200 Yards Away With Golf Ball

"Another time," continued Mr. Steffins, without taking a breath, or anything else, "he came down to the cigar stand I used to keep, in Utica, and we got to talking about how accurate a golf ball could be hit. He always carried his clubs around with him, in his car, so he went across the street and brought back his brassie and a ball. He took a couple matches off my counter and went back out in the street.

"He put down the matches, about a half inch apart, and set the ball upon them. He said 'See that electric sign down the street?' It was, I'd say, two and a half city blocks away or about 200 yards, and it was hanging from the second floor of building. Well, he drew back with that short hard swing he's got—right there in the middle of that traffic, with headlights coming at him, and the ball hardly visible—and wham! We couldn't see the ball, but we stood there a second or two and, bang! You could hear something hit the sign—and a couple of the sign's lights went out."

"I've known Monty a long time," a golf pro said, coming up out of his beer suds, "and everything you hear about that fellow's game is true. He used to send me his clubs to work on. I weighed his driver once and it's 20 ounces. It's got a head on it like the one I'm going to have tomorrow. Monty thinks Sam Snead is the longest hitter among the recognized golfers, with Jimmy Thomson second, but he says he'll outdrive them 50 yards, even though he admits he isn't as accurate as Snead."

Witnesses Testify to Monty's Great Skill

Other witnesses, quickly sworn in over a saucer of the clam broth that Fred the bar-keep was pouring, got up and testified that they had seen him score 190 in his first bowling game (he was kicked off the alley for winding up and pegging the 17-pound ball at the pins) make a 9-ball run in the first game of pool he shot, strike out 19 men in a game, throw strikes from the center field fence, teach Sarah Bernhardt French, spot Ellsworth Vines 30 points a game, chew empty cocktail glasses, including stems, lift a stuck car out of the mud, and lie in a row boat in the middle of the Hudson River and blow back the Albany Night Boat. It was getting pretty late by that time.

Strong men are a dime a dozen up here in the pure air of the Adirondacks. The presence of Montague has brought them all out. Trooper Paul McGinnis, who used to play for Notre Dame and who testified against Monty yesterday, is probably one of the strongest men in the country. A character named Sandow Soper came down out of the hills today, as he does every Saturday, to heckle the town's insurance man for refusing to sell him a policy. Sandow is 81, but when he heard about Monty he issued a formal challenge for a clinch. Eugene Bastian, an old vaudeville weight-lifter, is the manager of the hotel in which the reporters, jury and Montague are inmates. He came out of his retirement long enough last night to give the golf pro we were speaking about a basketball bounce out of the pub.

Resident Live Stock Tough, Too

The famous Joe Call lived here. In fact, he was tried in the same old courthouse, for killing the official bully of the British Army of 1812—in a hand-to-hand conflict whose thuds still echo through the hills.

Even the resident live stock are tough. Deers sometimes roam through the streets, at night, window shopping. Last Summer a lady up here had a beer-drinking parrot who attacked two reporters in a tipsy rage.

Sheriff Percy Egglefield's Boston bull lopes through the village smoking a pipe. He picked up the habit when he fell in with some fast company as a pup. He is a frightening sight, when he walks in a saloon late at night. Not even the local strongmen can clear out a pub like Percy's pipe-smoking Boston can.

Phils Pick Up Player

On the crest of a 450 batting average, achieved with an independent team at Dormont, Pa., the Phillies signed an outfielder named Howard Paul Gorman, a swift-footed young man. In his first professional venture, Gorman played first base for Washington, Pa., in the Pennsylvania State Association in 1935, batting .328.

Another $250 For Grid Fans

By DOUGLAS WHITNEY

THE DAILY MIRROR'S 250-a-week football selectors' contest, which met with unparalleled success in its first test of the current season, today swings into action with the publication of the coupon for next Saturday's games.

All that is required of you to enter this most engaging and amusing of contests is to fill out the adjacent coupon, stating the scores you think each of the 30 teams listed will compile. That's all there is to it. Nothing to buy. Nothing to clip other than the coupon.

Then send your completed coupon to the Football Selection Editor, The Mirror, 235 E. 45th St., New York City. There are no entry fees of any kind required. Nor is it necessary to use the coupon. A reasonable facsimile is acceptable.

INCREASE PRIZE LIST.

In addition to the eight cash prizes and the two pairs of tickets to a leading local college game which will be distributed to last week's winners, ten pairs of choice seats to the New York Giants' professional games have been added to the prize list.

Therefore, instead of the customary ten winners, this week's competition will find TWENTY WINNERS. The Mirror's contest offers more prizes than any other contest of similar nature.

Top prize for excellent in guessing the results and approximate scores of next Saturday's 15 outstanding collegiate football games is $150 IN CASH. A pretty sweet reward for merely giving your opinion on 15 football games.

2ND PRIZE $50.

The second best coupon submitted will receive $50, also a sum not to be sneezed at, particularly when the stock market is in such an unstable state. Third prize is $25. The next five best pickers will receive $5 each. Ninth and tenth awards are a pair of 50-yard line tickets to a leading local college game. Eleventh to twentieth winners, as explained above, will receive pairs of tickets to the Football Giants' game at the Polo Grounds.

The deadline for this week's entries is midnight Friday, Oct. 29. So, if you want to take a crack at matching your skill with the nation's football experts, sharpen your pencil and get busy.

Your efforts may net you $150 in cash. It may meet your margin requirements or more than pay for the Christmas gifts you must purchase. No matter what you do with it, $150 is a mighty comfortable commodity to possess.

the most exciting Fordham battles in years. Starting from the 18 yard line in the second period trailing 6-0, Fordham marched 78 yards on four first downs. The drive included a 22 yard gallop by Principe, an eight yard heave, Kalzo to Jacunski and some bullet thrusts by Kazio. But the Frogs took the ball on downs on the 4 line.

Franco intercepted a pass on the Texas 31 but O'Brien intercepted a Ram heave on his 15. Koehel then intercepted a fling and ran it 32 yards to the T. C. U. 8 but Granski's pass to Principe on fourth down carried only to the foot line where the Cowboys took the ball on downs. After the punt, Granski passed 13 to the visitors 13-yard line but O'Brien intercepted a pass on his 2.

Principe was hurt and fumbled on the T. C. U. 32 line in the third quarter, Blackmon recovering, but after the punt Krycwicki raced 42 yards to the Texas 18 on a pass from Woitkoski. Granski and Hearn plunged to first down on the 6 but the Horned Frogs staved off four thrusts, again taking the ball on downs on their 2 line. The gallant Frogs failed to wear down Fordham patience, however, and finally the Rams didn't stop until they crossed the line.

It won't be said again that the Rams can't pass.

bled a eKarns' kick on the NYU 31 and Quigg recovered for the Leopards, but the team from Easton failed to capitalize.

Later a 15-yard penalty to Lafayette and stellar line work by the Violets gave NYU possession on the Lafayette 42, but after going to the 20, Boell's passes went awry.

Going into the final period the Violets moved from their own 40 to the Leopards' 15, but Shorten fumbled and Zuchowski recovered for Lafayette. The Leopards staged a counter-offensive, moving to N. Y. U.'s 36 in four plays, featured by a 37-yard end sweep by Kearns. The see-saw struggle continued until Kearns took a punt on his 45 and brought it back to the Violet 34. Zuchowski heaved a pass to Greulich, who took it on the 15 and was in the clear for Lafayette's second touchdown. Zuchowski's kick for the point was too low.
