AIRMAIL

Dear Amon:

My secretary told me that you called me while you were in Washington last week, and it was a source of considerable disappointment to me that I was out of the office and missed your call.

As you know, the recent committee sessions have been very pressing, and I have been operating on a very close schedule of appointments. I hope that we can arrange to spend a little time together when you are next in Washington.

With cordial personal regards, I am

Sincerely,
