My dear Mr. Carter:

In connection with your kind assistance through Senator Connally's office regarding my efforts to effect the immigration of Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Prill from Bremen, Germany, I wish to add the following bit of information.

I have just completed reading a hand written eight pages of grief from him which boils down to this small tragedy. The Consulate sent the telegram notification of visa being available to his old address in Cologne, although for four months he has been registered as having moved to Bremen in order to be near the Consulate for the very purpose of being on hand when his visa number came up. The clerk in the Consulate, when Prill explained that after a lengthy delay he had received the telegram of notification from his old home forwarded by mail, said that she would try to bring it to the attention of the Consul as the visa number had been given to somebody else; since he did not answer the telegram. On subsequent calls to the Consulate the clerk told him that the Consul was too busy and she was unable to get it to his attention.

It would seem to me that such a tragedy of errors would certainly justify a little effort on the part of the Consul to straighten it out even though he must have quite a number of people on his staff. But the poor Prills have waited three years for this moment, and are prostrate now that somebody else has been given this number. Incidentally, Prill saw a letter on the table in the Consulate office with Connally's letterhead, so apparently their efforts have been getting through.

Thank you for all of your kindness in this matter.

Most cordially yours,

McKEEVER AND COMPANY
