NEW YORK 17, N.Y.

March 1st.
1949.

Dear Mr. Carter,

Although I've always heard of "Western Hospitality", I hadn't realised the bounds it could reach, and would like to thank you very much indeed. It was very kind of you to lend me your suite at the club and the Texas hat and bottle of Scotch whisky were all much appreciated, I was sorry not to see you again to say goodbye + must apologise.

I didn't discover till after lunch that the train left an hour earlier than I'd thought, and though I tried to contact you by phone, was unsuccessful.

I think undoubtedly that Fort Worth is the friendliest town I have visited, and it was a most enjoyable experience.
With best wishes, and
very many thanks.
Yours truly,
John Ashli.
