The Pacific and Atlantic coasts were brought within a 24-hour span Monday when American Airlines inaugurated its new Southern transcontinental route through Dallas. Members of the party who left Dallas on the inaugural flight at 8:32 a. m. Monday, scheduled to arrive in New York at 6:41 o'clock tonight, are shown above. Wallace Beery, movie actor, is in the center, hatless. E. K. Mead of The Times Herald is second from the right, also hatless. Others in the group are E. N. Swasey of Hearst's American Weekly, Los Angeles; E. C. Yourall, Los Angeles publisher; Seward Sheldon of the Fort Worth Press; Amon Carter, of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Frank Ellis, deputy first assistant postmaster general; Louis Jacoby, Midwest representative of the Chase National bank, who appears in the picture but who did not make the trip; Kenneth Foree of the Dallas News; Charles Roesser, Fort Worth oil man; General Frank Hitchcock of Tucson, Ariz., former postmaster general under whom the air mail service was inaugurated; Pilot Jerry Marshall, and Helen Moser, stewardess. The flight was begun at Los Angeles at 8:30 p. m. Sunday.
