

Reds Accuse U. S. of New Aggressive Act

Blockade of Korea Is Protested; U. N. Council Action Termed Illegal

MOSCOW, July 7 (AP).—Russia Friday accused the United States of committing a "new act of aggression" in blockading Korea and warned she would hold the United States responsible for any damage to Soviet interests.

The Russian position, voiced in a note sent to the American embassy, was in reply to one sent by the United States on July 4, informing the Russians that America had set up the blockade in keeping with the United Nations security council's request for support of South Korea.

The Russian answer repeated the Soviet stand that the security council resolution of June 27 was illegal. The Russians have based this contention on the grounds that the Soviet Union and the Chinese Peoples (Communist) Republic were not present at the meeting.

The Soviet note said the security council resolution could not "serve as a legal basis for taking any measures whatsoever with regard to Korea, including a naval blockade of Korea."

The Russian reply said in part: "The blockade of Korea con-

Billy Frank said he got a Belgium-make .765 pistol (similar to an American .32-caliber weapon) and drove after Johnson's auto.

He said he stopped the latter car in a wooded area one-half mile from the girl's house and forced Johnson out, then drove him and the girl to her house.

There the family questioned Johnson, and he left after they noted his name, address and license number and warned him to stay out of the neighborhood, Billy Frank said.

The uncle told detectives that after Johnson departed, the girl, around and came back, the wife said.

"It seemed it was the little girl's grandfather in the car," she told reporters. "He and my husband talked for some time and apparently everything was all right when my husband left. Later deputies came to our home and arrested my husband."

Johnson was given blood plasma and saline solution at Harris Hospital before undergoing surgery. Doctors said they failed to find the pistol slug. Johnson's condition remained critical at noon.

Texans Fleeing Seoul Are Believed in Tokyo

The ten Texans among the 194 employes of the State Department evacuated from Seoul, Korea, were all believed to be in Tokyo Friday.

George M. Roach of Austin talked 10 minutes with a sister, Miss Dorothy H. Roach of Mineral Wells, a 32-year-old former Texas Wesleyan College student, Friday morning in an overseas call from Austin to Tokyo.

Miss Roach told her brother that "everything is okay. We are going to stay but first we have to go shopping for some clothes."

The woman's mother, Mrs. W. H. Roach of Mineral Wells, said the Americans fled Seoul in such haste that they left their clothes and money behind.

With Miss Roach in Tokyo was Miss Jane A. Culpepper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Culpepper of Waco.

It was assumed that four other Texans, all listed from Fort Worth, also were in Tokyo.

The State Department listed them as Mr. and Mrs. Frank England, Mrs. England's son by a former marriage, 15-year-old Robert Lowell Ragatz Jr., and Miss Mary F. Manchester, 25, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Manchester of 1014 W. Cannon.

Mrs. England is the former Miss Mary P. Parker of Bird-

Duke Parker of 1012 W. Weatherford St., is an uncle. He reported that he had received two cables from his niece, the last from a Japanese island.

Miss Manchester, 25, a 1942 graduate of Paschal, joined the State Department after graduation from Columbia University. She had been in Korea a year and was a class analyst in the personnel section.

Her mother's last word from her was from Kyushu, Japan.

Other Texans evacuated from Korea were Charles H. Gage, El Paso; Elizabeth Abercrombie, Kilgore; Dolores Jablonski, Yorktown; Carl F. Bartz Jr., Dallas; and Robert L. Sisk, Wellington.

All citizens of Fort Worth, as "stockholders" in the new Greater Fort Worth International Airport, were invited Friday by Mayor Deen to attend groundbreaking ceremonies at 10 a. m. Monday for the Amon G. Carter Terminal Building.

Besides this general verbal invitation, the mayor put in the mail printed invitations to city officials of surrounding communities, civic league and civic club presidents, Chamber of Commerce directors, state legislators from Tarrant County, officers of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, the Fort Worth Terminal Corporation directors, officers and stockholders, and Tarrant County commissioners, as well as to 40 Fort Worth business men who went to Washington at their own expense to appear before a congressional committee considering the airport appropriation.

Big Red Tanks Seen.

Pilots returning to a southern Japan air base reported 10 extremely large Communist tanks lined up on the highway north of Pyongtaek. They said the tanks were larger than any seen before in the North Korean force.

Meanwhile, both sides rushed men and supplies into the muddy, red clay area along the winding Kum River for what appeared to be an imminent battle involving upwards of 90,000 Korean Reds and a small American force.

The rugged river country just north of Taejon is likely to become the battleground.

The American commander in Korea said the Reds had thrown 15 divisions and 150 tanks into South Korea. He estimated the Communist fighting men at between 75,000 and 90,000. Some divisions, he said, were at brigade strength.

Powerful Thrust.

So fast were the Communists pouring in it was a question whether the Americans would have time to check the powerful thrust. But this much was certain—those Americans thus far tested in battle were able. A handful of them—possibly no more than 500—stopped cold for six hours the best division the Russian trained Koreans threw at them.

The news of the huge Red reinforcements came as American and Australian airmen pound-minent. MacArthur predicted the effect of U. S. bombing would soon be felt at the battle front as the Red supply line lengthens.

The commander in Korea said no North Korean armor was below the River Kum at Pyongtaek. A bridge had been destroyed near Pyongtaek by American ground forces and planes.
