Amon Carter Given Air Force Award

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP) — Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, received Friday the Air Force's exceptional service award for his long-time efforts in behalf of American air power.

In presenting it, Secretary of Air Symington told Carter that "you were an advocate of air power when it wasn't very popular." With the award, said Symington, "goes the gratitude and affection of every member of the Air Force."

Cabinet officers, members of the Texas congressional delegation, military leaders and Carter's friends crowded into Symington's office for the ceremony.
