Dear Amon:

Just got back in town, and so have just seen your letter about young Amon and the editorial about Pop.

I don't know what you need your son's looks and age for because with your acquaintanceship, you seem to have a hell of a good time anyway.

As for the editorial, it goes without saying that I deeply appreciate your sentiments and, of course, share them. We reran your editorial, as I think all of our papers did, a few days ago.

Don't forget to let Lorelle and me know the next time you are going to be up this way.

Best regards,

Bill
