To William Randolph Hearst April 29 19 51

Street and No. Beverly Hills

Place California

The ANPA Convention always is a time for recollection and recapitulation. In such, naturally your name comes to the fore and your great contributions to journalism and public welfare are discussed. Few if any men have done as much as you have for both for more than 50 years. We also continue to marvel at you. While most of us are getting older you seem to grow younger. While we are slowing down you are going stronger. Amon, Jr., joins me in hearty congratulations on your birthday and the hope that you may have many more.
