Dear Amon:

Yesterday, I got your letter telling about the beef and other things arriving at the Waldorf-Astoria. At the same time, I got a message from the Waldorf-Astoria saying that everything had arrived in good shape and had been properly stored in the deep freeze. All this makes me more than anxious to get ourselves settled in a house, but we have had a God-awful time trying to do it. As you well know, things don't seem to move over here like they do in Texas, and, at times, I get terrifically impatient. However, both Mamie and I are tremendously appreciative, and now, for goodness sake, don't send any more beef there until we get on our feet and can get this largely used up, and then I shall tell you how things are going.

All the clippings were most interesting. I am glad you remembered to send them.

I must dash off a quick note to Sid. Don't forget to give my very best to young Amon, and, of course, my love to Minnie.

Again, my grateful thanks and warm personal regard.

Cordially,

Mr. Amon G. Carter
