Dear Amon:

Your secretary, Miss Deakins, sent on to me a copy of the letter you received from James Callan, Jr. I most heartily agree with your feeling that the letter breathes sincerity and deep patriotism. I wish I could see and talk to him, not only because he has himself been a soldier and has sacrificed his son to America's service, but because he is obviously a man of courage and conviction.

Thank you for allowing me to read the letter.

Please remember me to Sid. I am not certain, but it is possible that I owe him a letter. In any event, I shall try to write to him within a few days. Then, of course, I expect you to convey my affectionate greetings to Mrs. Carter and remember me warmly to your fine son.

With all the best,

As ever,

Mr. E
