FORT WORTH ARMY AIR FIELD
Fort Worth, Texas

July 28, 1944

Mr. Amon Carter
1220 Broad
Fort Worth, Texas

Dear Mr. Carter:

August 1, 1944 is the thirty-seventh anniversary of the establishment of what is now the Army Air Forces, August 2nd is the thirty-fifth anniversary of the purchase of the first military airplane, and August 5th is the second anniversary of the establishment of the Army Air Forces Combat Crew School at this station. In celebration of these three anniversaries, Fort Worth Army Air Field is holding open house from one to five o'clock, August 1st, at which time the residents of Fort Worth and vicinity will be given an opportunity to come on the field and see our station and operation.

Realizing as I do that your efforts and influence were largely responsible for the establishments of this station in Fort Worth, I want to personally extend to you an invitation to come to the field as my guest. If you can come out at noon, I would also like to have you as my guest at the Officers' Club for lunch.

Trusting we may have the pleasure of your company during this anniversary celebration, I am

Very truly yours,

H. W. DORR,
Colonel, Air Corps,
Commanding.
