S. HUROK presents

Ralph VOTAPEK

This Fall young pianists from many countries including the Soviet Union assembled in Fort Worth for the First Van Cliburn International Competition, a contest that drew the attention of the world's press.

A distinguished panel of judges heard them through many phases of a keyboard artist's repertory, including concerti, sonatas, smaller solo pieces and chamber music. The judges and the many critics present agreed that the level of talent among the contestants was extremely high, but, when the time came to make the final decision, there was no question: First Prize—Ralph Votapek of Milwaukee.

It is with pleasure that S. Hurok presents this young American artist of remarkable present attainments and of talent that could take him into that select company of the truly eminent.
