FOR RELEASE Immediate

American Airlines is offering vacationists both Mexico City and California in a single 14-day tour which hits the high spots of both major tour areas. This CalMex Air Tour marks the first time that the two popular vacationlands have been made available to the traveling public in one tour package, according to R.E.S. Deichler, vice president-sales.

"Such a tour is possible only by air," he said. "Heretofore, a trip to California meant mainly visits to the movie studios, the national parks and beaches, all within the boundaries of California. There wasn't time for anything else.

"But now with the comfortable, high speed travel on American Airlines' DC-6 Blue Ribbon Coaches and Flagships, it is possible for us to offer the vacationists an economical tour of both California and Mexico, all within 14 days. Mexico City itself is only 3 hours and 55 minutes off our transcontinental routes."

Price of the tour is $394 from Chicago and $491 from New York, plus tax. This includes hotel accommodations at the Hollywood-Roosevelt in Los Angeles, the Del Prado in Mexico City, the Hotel de Las Americas in Acapulco and the Santa Priscas in Taxco. Also included are motor trips and guided tours to the major tourist attractions in both Mexico and California.

An attractive feature of CalMex Air Tours is the freedom of movement afforded the tourist. The itinerary is flexible. The tourist can spend more time in California and less in Mexico or vice versa. In fact, he can spend all of his time in either place. The rates for various combinations of the basic itinerary vary.
