AND THE WEST INDIES

To Fly 15,000 Miles In Great New Flying Boat
—Members Of Party.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15 (AP)—A group of publishers and aviation officials is scheduled to leave Miami tomorrow on a fifteen day, 15,000 miles flight to the West Indies and East Coast countries of South America.

The itinerary includes visits to twelve countries and colonies for the purpose of obtaining personal knowledge of commercial and social trends in South America.

The flight is to be made in the "Brazilian Clipper," new commercial flying boat which is to be christened at ceremonies in Rio de Janeiro by Senhora Getulio Vargas, wife of the president of Brazil.

In the group making the trip are these eight members and a special representative of the Associated Press.

Frank E. Gannett, chairman of the Gannett Newspapers; James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner and president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association; Roy Howard, publisher of
