My dear Mr. Carter:

Words cannot adequately express our appreciation for the excellent meal and the fine time which you gave our guests, the Aviation Writers Association; the only complaint was from the women--that they were not permitted to accompany the others; however, we did have our counselor entertain them at the Rivercrest Country Club which, in part, made up for their loss.

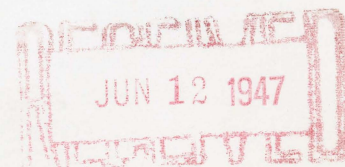

Those writers who contacted me personally were voluble in their appreciation of your hospitality. I am sure that they also carried with them a feeling of friendliness towards Fort Worth in general and to you in particular. I am confident that the results of your generosity will be felt over an extended period.

Mr. Woodhead and Mr. Laddon also extend their thanks and appreciation for your part in this successful public relations event.

Sincerely,

R. G. Mayer
