Dear Mrs. Deakins:

Because Mr. C. R. is out of town, I am taking the liberty of answering your note of September 20th.

Thank you for calling to our attention the error made by our transfer agent. Unfortunately, a few of the wrong envelopes were used to disburse our dividend and you happened to be among those affected. The bank has assured us that such a mistake will not happen again.

It was very kind of you to take the time and trouble to write and if there should be any way that I can be of service to you, please do not hesitate to let me know.

Sincerely,

A. A. Paradis
