TO: The Directors

We have had, for some time, a policy that the principal officers of the company would have a thorough physical examination once each year.

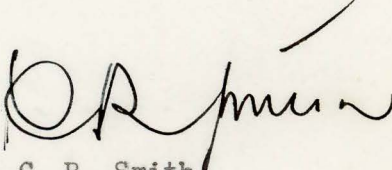

This has been done through arrangement with the Lovelace Clinic, Albuquerque, New Mexico, one of the outstanding institutions of its kind in the United States.

The physical examinations usually take about three days. After their completion there is a discussion with a principal of the Clinic, to talk about physical condition and any difficulties which may be anticipated.

The record of work and result has been good, and I am sure that some potential troubles of import have been avoided.

This same service is available to the directors of the company, at no cost to the director.

Make it a point to avail yourself of this service once a year. When you are ready to go to Lovelace, please write to me and all of the necessary arrangements will be made for you.
