Amon Carter's Son Missing In Action

FORT WORTH, Tex., Mar. 11—(U.P.)—Lieutenant Amon G. Carter, Jr., 23, son of Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, is missing in action in North Africa, the war Department has announced.

The announcement, received by his father in a telegram from the War Department, says Lieutenant Carter's artillery unit had been in action near Sbeitla in northern Tunisia February 14.

Lieutenant Carter was graduated from Culver Military Academy in Culver, Indiana, as a reserve officer and entered active service in July, 1941.

He received further training at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

He was sent to Ireland and later to England. He moved to Africa with the Allied invasion.

Carter, Senior, visited his son when he was in Ireland and England for several weeks last fall.
