Dear Amon,

Jim Moroney just told me that he had heard through Harold Hough that Amon, Jr. is "missing in action" and I hasten to write you this little note to express my sincerest sympathy and to say at the same time that you shouldn't be too downhearted because there is a mighty good chance that Amon, Jr. is either a prisoner of war or else he may be simply separated from his outfit. I trust and pray that one of these latter things is true. I feel sure the boy will turn up within a short time.

Of course, I know how worried you must be and I am worrying with you. But at the same time I have a hunch that everything will turn out all right.

Sincerely,

Ted Dealey
