

Dear Mr. Carter:

When our son, the late Capt. Charles C. Johnson III was home in November, we asked him how the boys felt about being a prisoner of war, or being reported "missing in action."

He replied, "While there's life there's always a chance—or hope."

Our son is gone.

Please accept our sincere sympathy and it is our hope that your dear son, at worst, is a prisoner of war—and that he will be eventually restored to you.

Sincerely,

Katty Mae Johnson.

Charles Johnson, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cousins Johnson, Jr.
