

1411 MONTANA STREET

EL PASO, TEXAS

My dear Mr. Carter:

I am so distressed for you over the news that your fine young son is a probable prisoner. I intended writing a few days ago when I saw he was missing, then comes a clipping with a splendid picture of him, which I enclose as it is so clear - what a fine and precious looking boy he is! Such a strong and sweet face, with splendid featured out a wonderful mouth - I am sorry you can't love this distress - of course so many must experience it, but when it comes to our friends, we feel it is nearer us - as terrible as being a prisoner is, I am sure you feel as our parents here, that at least he is living and some day will be released.

1411 MONTANA STREET

EL PASO, TEXAS

See that fellow seems a little perturbed again over it. Worth being for out

1411 MONTANA STREET

EL PASO, TEXAS

by a few feet of ground.
As I trust one Dallas lady, years ago, they are one of feet because they look no Annan Carter of Dallas instead of St. North - all success to you - Remember like Dallas, anyway and love St. North. Tell Walter Scott I said that, please.

Again, please know that I am thinking of you during these anxious days -

Sincerely

Mar. 25, 1943 - Julia W. Pool

MISSING—2dLt. Amon Carter Jr., son of the publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, is reported missing in the North Africa action. He is believed to be a prisoner in German hands. —AP Wirephoto.