Dear Carter:

About six years ago I met your boy, Amon, Jr., at the Tuthill's. He was in his school military uniform, and a better-looking and better-mannered boy, I had never seen.

About three weeks ago, again I was at Mimi Tuthill's. The telephone rang, and Mimi came back and announced in a crushed voice that your boy was missing in battle. It may interest you to know that we all felt so badly, the game stopped.

In this morning's Tribune, I noticed a dispatch to the effect that Amon, Jr., is alive and well as a prisoner. I cannot refrain from telling you how happy those few lines made me, and how glad I am that you will see your boy again after this terrible war.

Sincerely yours,

T. C. de Kanters

Mr. Amon Carter,
Fort Worth,
Texas.
