Dear Mr. Carter:

During recent days my thoughts of you have been constant and in this suspense period I have maintained the fervent hope and wish that when the final report was announced that your dear son would not have met a worse fate than having been captured - which is certainly bad enough, but to know he is alive is reassuring and very consoling.

I have admired greatly the noble spirit exhibited by you and have marvelled at the way you have carried on under such terrific strain.

Sincerely,

Mayo.
