

Fort Worth, Texas,
June 8th, 1946.

Mr. Amon G. Carter,
c/o Fort Worth Star-Telegram,
Fort Worth, Texas.

Dear Sir:

I have been reading about the new air port that the city is plaining on building south of the city.

I would like to offer a suggestion on this project.

Why not build this air port between Fort Worth and Dallas and call it the Fort Worth Air Port. Because of the expense involved in air lines taking off and landing in both cities, I believe the air lines would almost be forced to use a single air port if it were located between the two cities. This would practically take Dallas off of the map as an air terminal.

It seems to me this would be a chance for Fort Worth to capture an air terminal title and eliminate Dallas.

Yours truly,

John R. Sligh
John R. Sligh

