Silver Star-Telegram

Published Twice a Month

Miss Inez Brooks, Editor

Our school opened for the 25-26 term November 19th. Attendance has not been quite as good as we would like, but we expect to pick up after the holidays, along this line.

Our teachers are living up to their reputation, as efficient, tactful and sympathetic teachers. All the pupils like their teachers and are learning extraordinarily well on account of the untiring efforts and tactful ability of our teachers to explain in an understandable way the different subjects that are seemingly mystifying to the pupils.

We have already received part of our library books and will receive the others soon.

We also expect to take more interest in athletics this year than ever before.

We hope that the contemplated improvements on the school ground will be completed for the opening of school after the holidays, especially the water system.

Jokes

Edith Roberison: "Glyn do you love me?"

Glynn Coon: "Do I, what do you think I bought that bag of peanuts for last week."

Mr. Templeton: "Honesty is the best policy."

Jess Smith: "You're wrong teacher, twenty pay life is the best policy."

Velma Finley: "Gee, J. T., I smell burnt hair."

J. T. Brown: "Well, take your head off of my shoulder."

Tom Smith: "My girl calls me her bright light."

Vista Finley: "How come?"

Tom: "Her mother comes in and turns me down, and her father comes in and turns me out."

Inez Brooks: "I frankly admit that I am looking for a husband."

Lois Jackson. "So am I."

Inez: "But I thought you had one."

Lois: "So I have, but I spend most of the time looking for him."

Melvin Greeg and Faye Brown went on their honeymoon to New York. They wanted to ride on the street car but did not know where to get on.

Melvin went out and got on the track and asket the first fellow that come along, "Say Mr, where can i get a street car at." The fellow answered, "you will get it in the back if you don't move."

One afternoon Edith Robinson and Glynn Coon were in town. Glynn drove his car in front of the drug store and stopped .Edith says, "Gee, Glynn, that popcorn sure does smell good."

Glynn: "Well, I will drive up a little closer so you can get a better smell."

Preston Brown bought a suit of clothes. He tried them on and they did not fit so he took them back. The dealer asked him what the matter was. Preston answered, "Well the left leg of the pants is too long and the right coat sleeve is too short, so he could not use the suit.

There will be a singing at the Silver school house Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Everybody come and bring someone else with you.
