

From

Date

BOOZE VS. HIGHWAYS.

See what Amon G. Carter started when he yelled "Hurrah for Dan Moody" at the Longhorn-Aggie football game!

The outburst in Austin today was expected. Some issue must be raised to lay a smoke screen over the state highway mess. The cheering by the North Texas publisher was too much for the ruling family.

The Methodists are challenged by the Fergusons to get out and help close up the liquor joints. Why are the Baptists overlooked? And the Presbyterians?

The Fergusons weep over the poor "underfed men" being sentenced to the penitentiary for selling booze and "laws which become a stench" because not enforced. Down in this part of Texas the anti-booze laws seem to be very well enforced but we hear from Austin of some other matters there that seem to need attention of grand juries and other branches of the legal machinery.

It doesn't seem likely that the $500 reward offered today by the Fergusons will direct the attention of the attorney general away from the state highway contracts.