THE attack upon Amon G. Carter by Governor Miriam Ferguson displays a vindictiveness that can only be attributed to the recent disclosures in the highway investigation.

* * *
CARTER not only criticized the highway department, but he stood behind the governor's box at a football game and yelled, "Hooray for the Aggies and Dan Moody."

* * *
THE dismissal of the Fort Worth publisher is personal in its nature and we withhold any comment until he has answered it.

* * *
WE do see in the incident a warning to newspaper publishers who accept political appointments.

* * *
WE have one in Houston and suggest that he be careful what he says about the governor, or the state university may lose one of its regents.
