Carter Pledges Assistance to Tech

FORT WORTH, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Amon G. Carter, whose resignation was tendered to Governor Moody as chairman of the board of Texas Technological college January 27, stated Friday night that pressure of other matters forced him to decline the re-appointment.

The governor had written requesting him to reconsider but Carter found this impossible. However, he said that he wanted friends of the college and the college as well to remember that he has just as keen an interest in the institution as ever and stands ready at all times to help, should help ever be needed.
