The generation of Governor Ferguson, made on July 24, 1920, will be followed, probably, by a movement of which Mr. Moody obtained a majority, not so he would not contest the nomination, for the Governorship, with him in a run-off primary, has been proven to have meant nothing. It has been proven to have meant more of the time than the offer she made when she opened her campaign to resign if he led by so much as one vote.

Failing in their efforts to bar Mr. Moody from a place in the ticket before the State Executive Committee at Dallas, Monday, the Fergusons will now run off with him to the second primary and take their chance, however, at election law violation to the minority by a very small figure.

However, the last move of the Fergusons will avail them nothing and to every right-minded person it will appear as a clear case of political crassness. Mr. Moody defeated Mrs. Ferguson in the first primary by 120,000 votes. He obtained more votes than Mrs. Ferguson in every Senatorial District and the Conservative primary. The following general vote of approximately 1,600 given to Mrs. Johnson, who withdrew two days before the second primary, Mr. Moody obtained. Mr. Moody, in the first of six candidates, with the votes for all others added, was nominated by a very small fragment.

In this situation, it is difficult to know what Mrs. Ferguson's next move will be to obtain a runoff with Mr. Moody. Certainly she can not expect any of the Moody supporters to switch their votes to her. She can expect little, if any, support from the Davidson factions; rather, it is expected that the vote cast for him will practically all go to Mr. Moody. The scattering vote among the others, while unimportant in the total, can not be even counted as Ferguson votes. Had they been they would have been cast for her in the first place, rather than the plan now known to have no chance of success. The vote polled for Mrs. Ferguson in the first primary is undoubtedly her maximum strength. The vote in the runoff will not even if increased; rather it will see it materially decreased, for this latest move is bound to disgust many of those who voted for her in the first primary; and to alienate much for her strength. To many of them, as well as those who supported the other candidates, it will be viewed as nothing less than an attempt to deprive the successful candidate of his well-earned victory and to thwart the will of the majority of Texas voters.

The hope of the Fergusons must lie in something beyond the ridiculous or a second primary without victory in a runoff. It must be made in order to protect themselves in the event the court should bar Mr. Moody's name from the ballot in the general election in November. Either that, or it is designed as a smoke screen to cover up other plans of the Ferguson administration. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest.

The hope of the Fergusons must lie in something beyond the ridiculous or a second primary without victory in a runoff. It must be made in order to protect themselves in the event the court should bar Mr. Moody's name from the ballot in the general election in November. Either that, or it is designed as a smoke screen to cover up other plans of the Ferguson administration. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest.

The hope of the Fergusons must lie in something beyond the ridiculous or a second primary without victory in a runoff. It must be made in order to protect themselves in the event the court should bar Mr. Moody's name from the ballot in the general election in November. Either that, or it is designed as a smoke screen to cover up other plans of the Ferguson administration. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest. It is a question of good government and the people's interest.