

Susan Diggle

May 24, 1944

Dear Miss Deakins —

It's been entirely too long since I last wrote Amos, and I do feel badly about it, but time seems to fly by. I really had intended to write him a newsy little note every month, but I suppose one once in a while will be better than none at all.

I do hope you'll send the letter along to him and that it won't be too much trouble, I surely will appreciate it. I received a letter from Maxine this week (Pat Reardon's wife) and she says that they hear from you once in a while.

Well, I do hope Amos is happy and healthy, and I'll try to write him more often.

Thank you so much Miss Deakins.

Sincerely,
Susan

P.S. — you may read the letter if you wish, although it's a little too drooly to suit me — I wanted to write a perky one — I'll have to practice for the next one.