

Bonham Texas,

July 1, 1878.

Dear Sallie;

I write you this hasty note while waiting for the train. I have sent father an order for ten dollars, asking him to get the money and pay to you. Pay Sister Smith what you owe her, and use the balance as you may desire. You may give Cousin David a few dollars if he needs any about the well. Meeting closed last night. No other additions since my last writing.

A rainy sad day to start off on a preaching tour in a muddy country.

Tell Cousin David to engage one two or three tons of hay.

Love to all.

Affectionately,
A. Glasser.
