

McKinney, Texas, Aug. 24, 1885.

My dear Sallie,

I am here at Leather's resting. Had a good little nap before dinner, and a real good dinner, to which I did ample justice. I did not intend to stop here, but Randolph intercepted me here, and I stop over till evening. Mother + Co. went on to Home, and will come back here to night. I don't like to put so many on leather, or I would have mother come here and not till train time in the morning. - I did not get to sleep a wink last night.
We had to wait at Dallas ground four till 8-30. Mother seems to be enjoying the trip very well. I do hope that she will continue well.

Bro. Joe Regers sent among other letters one to brother Mather forgot to give it to him. I found it, and send it with this. I do hope you are all safe home by this time. Let us all thank our Heavenly Father for His goodness in keeping you safe from all dangers. As I walked back from bro.

Riders last night, and thought of you all safe and sound, with the prospect of a good night's rest before you, I poured out my heart in thankfulness to the Author and Giver of all good.
I shall go to Hopkins Co. myself. Randolph will hold a meeting at Corinth in this County. I do not yet know whether I shall go on in the morning with master and Cousin David, or wait till Monday.

The Melissa meeting must go on over L. D.; and, if Mr.
Wentless will carry it on,
I shall go in the morning.
He had four additions last night. He will do just as much good as any one can do. — I forgot to tell you to write just as soon as you would get home.

Love to all,
A. Clark
