

April 17, 1943.

Mrs. Emma Catherine Lewey,
Dalhart, Texas.

Dear Mrs. Lewey:

The morning paper carries a list of Texans who are prisoners of war in the hands of Japanese, among which is your daughter, Lt. Army Nurse Frankie Thelma Lewey, and I am sure after the anxiety you have endured that though this information is distressing, it still brings to you encouragement and the realization that sooner or later these boys will come home.

I also noticed a report from a Red Cross representative, who had made an inspection trip, that the Japs are observing the international code in the handling of prisoners of war.

I can truly sympathize with you in your anxiety as I have a son who was reported missing in action in North Africa since February 14th. The War Department gave me this information on March 11th and the good news -- that he is a prisoner of war in Germany - did not arrive until April 14th. All of the heartaches to the individual families of our great country bring a keen realization of the sadnesses and responsibilities of war and the only thing for us to do is to possess the same amount of courage that our loved ones have displayed in facing the enemy.

Sincerely,

AGC.KD
