My Dear Father

We received your letter and card. We are very glad you are so well pleased, and hope you will use every thing better all the time. I would imagine that is about cold these feet grow. It is colder here, than it has ever been, or than it was at all last winter. And I know it is sure to be much colder yet further north. I hope it will moderate some before time you see to go home, as it would be very pleasant traveling at night if it is as cold as it is now. Berrie and I will go Saturday night.

I suppose brother will go Thursday night if he can get notice by then. I know mother is anxious for us to go home as soon as we can. Sister says she is going Friday. So I suppose Berrie and I will be the last one home. We will stay as long as our tickets are good, which I believe is just to the third. I know we will miss you and wonder what you are. It is too bad for you both to have to be so far away from home and not be together. I hope it is the last Christ mas you will we have to be away from the rest of us. I hope Carlton and Wallace will get an invitation from the Kimples to spend Christmas with them.

Carl said he wrote them and was waiting for an answer and hoped they would invite him to visit them. I don't imagine Carl will get to spend much during the absence if he doesn't go anywhere, because he will have to keep Wallace amused, I am sure Wallace won't want to study much.

Miss Clemmons is back in school now, I hope to see her yesterday, thought may be you had seen her, but she said she didn't see you.

It was very sad for her to be called home as suddenly.
I didn't suppose she would come back to school, not for some time anyway. But I suppose she wanted to come now so she could take the vacation.

I hope you have a pleasant place to spend, and have enough fun to keep warm these cold times.

We are looking forward to Saturday with great pleasure, for we are very anxious to go home. Tomorrow until that time I will be too busy to do anything but study.
Very sincerely,
and must have a pleasant Christmas
