Dear Mr. Miller,

I hope I got your name and address correctly from your secretary so you'll eventually get this note. It was so nice of you to have her telephone me to tell me Suss was in London having dinner at the Savoy and in good spirits. My own spirits are much higher hearing it and I know the other wives will be just as glad to have first hand news of their husbands.

If you see Suss
again, make him buy you some especially good English ale - or whatever they're drinking these days - for being thoughtful enough to let me have news of him. I certainly appreciated it.

Sincerely,
Claire Pritchard
