Dear Mr. Carter:

About November, 1942, you made a trip to London and upon your arrival back to the states notified me that my husband, Lt. Michael Charles Maras, was well and that you had eaten lunch with him.

Your son was in the same battalion, 91st Armored Field Artillery Battalion, and therefore, through him, you met my husband.

I understand that you published in your paper, the Fort Worth Star Telegram, the signatures of the officers and men in the Artillery units, and therefore, if the issue is still available, I would appreciate your sending me a copy of it. In return, I will remit the necessary amount.

Also, any news you have had concerning your son would be greatly appreciated. My husband is due to return at some time in the near future and if he has had any recent news, concerning Amon G. I'm sure, without a doubt, that he will let you know.

Thanking you very much for everything you may be able to do, I remain,

Sincerely Yours,

Mrs. M. C. Maras, Jr.
