

My dear Mr. Carter -

I am enclosing a clipping which I found last week in looking through some New York papers. I feel sure that you have one of the original pictures but thought you might like an extra copy. I know that your joy is unbounded in finding Amon alive and well, and I wish to tell you that many of us, his friends, share your happiness.

My kindest regards and
best wishes to you both.

Sincerely,

Addaide Pack Fuller

AMON CARTER'S SON FREED, MEETS FATHER

WITH THE UNITED STATES EIGHTY-THIRD DIVISION, Germany, May 5 (AP)—Lieut. Amon G. Carter Jr., a prisoner of the Germans since Faid Pass, Tunisia, more than two years ago, was reunited here today with his father, publisher of The Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram. The elder Carter is making a tour of the front after visiting atrocity scenes.

Lieutenant Carter's first words were, "Here I am, Dad." He promptly started figuring out how to get his buddies out of Luckenwalde prison, from which he was liberated by a special patrol sent to get him in time for the reunion.

Overcoming visible embarrassment before the party of Army personnel and press representatives, he kept saying not only to his father but to the general officers present: "We've got to go back and get those other fellows. They're worried about the Russian-German fights going on all around them and we've got to get them." He was reassured that arrangements were being made to evacuate all Luckenwalde prisoners. His father came to Europe with a group of American editors and publishers to view German atrocities at first hand.

Lieutenant Carter said the worst treatment he had received since his capture came at the hands of Italians during the early phases of the war. After being seized at Faid Pass he was flown to Italy in a German JU-52 and the formation was among those attacked regularly by American fighter planes. From Italy he was taken to Germany, then to Poland, back to Berlin, and finally to Luckenwalde.
